'We Will Bury You'—?

UN Notes: Early this summer there will go on exhibition in Moscow's Solniki Park 21 U.S.

automobiles, representing our major companies. They will be housed in a huge American-built pavilion. In it will be exhibited American industry, culture, housing, home-living, literature and examples of historic customs. Carl Sandburg, for example, will be there with the great U.S. photographer Edward Steichen, and his magnificent pictures of "The Family of Man."

There is, in the United Nations, a small group of foreign delegates who believe this to be of great significance. They are increasingly of the opinion that Khrushchev is about to wage an all-out war—but that it will be one of economics—not guns.

The exhibit, the first the Soviets have seen of our perhaps overplayed standard of living, will certainly excite curiosity, envy and desire.

Khrushchev knows this. He wants, the U.N. group believes, just such public support to assist him in cutting down the last of the old Stalinist proponents. The American exhibit, plus the U.S. movies now granted entry into the USSR, will be a new carrot held before the Soviet donkey.

Real Importance

This school of thought has now been bolstered by an announcement of very real importance to this country and the rest of the world.

The Russians, according to Finnish and Swedish trade delegations, have completed a huge transcontinental pipeline network for oil which links the Caspian and Black seas with the Baltic. Natural gas lines also are being built from wells in the Ukraine.

With this system the Soviets can, and will, flood Europe and Scandinavia with cheap crude oil. The Finnish delegation reports that the Soviets are offering increased supplies for this year and next. Finland already buys her total supply of oil from Russia. Sweden has increased her purchase of crude by 700,000 tons for 1959.

Soviet oil presently is sold to North European countries by tankers which need a month to make the voyage from the Black Sea via the Mediterranean, Atlantic and English Channel. The new network reduces the journey to one day.

While the accuracy of the reports from Finland and Sweden may be questioned as to how much of the oil and gas lines actually is completed, there can be no reasonable doubt but that it basically is true.

The Results

Once it is in operation, and cheap crude and gasoline are available to Europe, the results could be catastrophic. The Middle East would be hard hit. The blow to the United States would be a hard smash to Uncle Sam's economic jaw.

The small group of U.N. persons believe that all this is a major factor in Khrushchev's rush to stabilize Eastern Europe. If, by negotiations, he can freeze the status quo by having Great Britain and the United States agree to the boundaries of present Soviet influence, he will, for a time, abandon territorial expansion. The greater energy would then be devoted to production.

The recent East German fair at Leipzig showed the Russians not to have made much advancement in what we call a standard of living—cars, refrigerators, appliances, et cetera. But they are coming along rapidly in heavy industrial goods.

This progress is very impressive to the Asians and Orientals. They can see its benefits. It means jobs. To them our shining cars and household luxuries seem too far beyond them for attainment in this generation.

Adlai Stevenson believes that Khrushchev's crude boast, "We will bury you," referred only to his belief that the Soviet economy and the associated political benefits would make Russia too strong to oppose by war.

All this means that whether we like it or not, we must have freer trade. If we wait our trade muscles will atrophy.

Doctor Waits With Pistol At His Side

CORNELIA—A Cornelia physician who carried evidence of wrongdoing to Gov. Vandiver's medical committee remained under police protection here Thursday night.

Dr. George T. Nicholson, concerned over the safety of his family after being threatened Wednesday night, kept a gun at his side as he talked to newsmen at his home Thursday.

"I would hate to use it," Dr. Nicholson said, "but if it's going to be a fight, then let's fight."

CHILDREN KEPT IN

Dr. Nicholson and his wife stayed at home Thursday and kept their two children—Patty, 15, and Jimmy, 13—out of school. The doctor left the house only to deliver some affidavits to Dr. W. Bruce Schaefer of Toccoa, chairman of the medical committee.

The doctor, president of the medical staff of the Habersham Hospital, was exhausted and appeared haggard from lack of sleep. He had not slept since receiving the threat about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

SHOOTING SCRAPE PROBED

A man who telephoned Dr. Nicholson warned him not to take "any papers to Dr. Schaefer or we'll fix you but good."

Law enforcement officers in this area Thursday also were investigating a shooting scrape and another threat received by a Cornelia woman mail carrier. Police Chief Bill England said both incidents may be connected with the Nicholson threat.

Dr. Nicholson disclosed Thursday that shortly before he was threatened, he received some affidavits from Dr. Jimmy Baugh, Milledgeville physician, and Baldwin County Rep. Philip Chandler, to deliver to Dr. Schaefer.

Dr. Nicholson is a longtime friend of both Dr. Schaefer and Dr. Baugh. The Cornelia physician said that after The Atlanta Constitution recently began a series of articles on irregularities at the state hospital, Dr. Baugh asked him to "help fumigate" the hospital's medical staff.

"I have no direct interest in TOCCOA—Affidavits containing "serious charges" of irregularities at Milledgeville State Hospital will be turned over to Gov. Vandiver's medical committee when it meets in Atlanta Friday, Dr. Bruce Schaefer, chairman, said Thursday.

The affidavits were delivered to Dr. Schaefer by Dr. George T. Nicholson at Cornelia, who arrived here under a Cornelia police guard. The Toccoa police chief and two officers were waiting at Dr. Schaefer's office when Dr. Nicholson and Cornelia Police Chief Bill England arrived.

Dr. Schaefer said that while the affidavits contained extremely serious charges, they actually added very little to information already developed by the medical committee.

"We had most of it already, but not in affidavit form," Dr.

Schaefer said. He said the information that the committee had developed "already was strong enough."

The committee meets at 2 p.m. Friday at the Atlanta Academy of Medicine. Dr. Schaefer said the committee may release to the press information from the affidavits after Friday's meeting.

"We hope this will be the last meeting," Dr. Schaefer said, "but it is possible that we might have to return to Milledgeville for at least one more hearing."

"I can't say we stop it all, although we put forth all efforts to do so," Balkcom said.

Balkcom was joined by Georgia prison chief Jack Forrester in discounting as "absurd" the claims of ex-inmates that dope is easy to get at the Georgia State Prison.

"I can not attach too much credit to allegations by a convict with a long record and a drug addict himself," said Balkcom. "Most addicts will say anything."

Forrester pointed out that the 47-year-old confirmed dope addict who set off the dope charges

Circus Lion Escapes, Terrifies N.Y. Crowd

NEW YORK (UPI)—An 800-pound lion broke loose at the start of the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey circus in Madison Square Garden Thursday night and terrified the 4,000 persons in the audience until it was cornered and trapped in a corridor.

The lion, named "Ponto," had just been turned loose in the center ring of the three-ring circus along with two tigers. The animal knocked over its cage and fought with one of the tigers and then clawed his way through the mesh enclosure around the ring.

State To Take Tax On All Sales to U.S.

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Georgia's 3 per cent sales tax will be collected on all sales to federal installations after April 1, Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford announced Thursday.

Oxford said he could not predict how much the new regulation would bring into the state treasury.

However, one source indicated it could run well over a million dollars.

NONE COLLECTED

At present, no sales tax is collected on sales to the federal government.

But Oxford said Atty. Gen. Cook held in an official opinion that in the light of recent state appellate court rulings, the federal government is not exempt.

Cook said that three recent appellate court rulings taken together "indicate that the Georgia retailers and consumers' sales and use tax act imposes a tax upon the dealer and not upon the purchaser or user of tangible personal property."

NOT EXEMPTED

Therefore, Oxford said, "it doesn't make any difference who the buyer is."

State, county and municipal installations are specifically exempt by law, Oxford said, but federal agencies are not.

At Ft. McPherson alone, Post Exchange sales run more than $1.5 million a year, a base spokesman said. And it takes another $4 million to $5 million in goods "just to keep the base running," he added.

But the official said there was no way to determine immediately how much of these sales and purchases would be affected by the ruling.

It is expected that Oxford's order will be contested.

Cadenhead Says Probe Is Closing In on 'Core' Of State Irregularities

Holdover Jury Bill Is Vetoed

Gov. Vandiver Thursday vetoed two Fulton County local bills including one which would have permitted grand juries to remain in session after the end of the court term for which they were empaneled.

He said he has signed 429 bills and 69 resolutions, completing action on all measures passed by the 1959 legislature.

NINE OTHERS VETOED

In addition to the Fulton bills, nine other local bills were vetoed because of defective advertising, he said. He told his news conference he discussed the bills with local delegations, explained why he was vetoing them and that in each instance the local representatives agreed with the veto.

A resolution calling for the governor to make funds available for a coliseum at the University of Georgia in Athens got a pocket veto. Vandiver said he felt that if he had signed the resolution he would have been obligated to make the money available when there is none to make available.

VOTER REGISTRATION

In addition to the grand juries bill, Vandiver killed a Fulton bill which would have authorized voter registration at places other than the Fulton County courthouse.

He said the bill would amend a 1958 law so as to displace the elected tax commissioner of the county and two deputies ap-

Boost in Fare For Trolleys Asked Here

Atlanta Transit System Thursday asked the Georgia Public Service Commission to approve an increase in passenger fares.

The company asked permission to sell four tokens for 70 cents, rather than at the present rate of three for 50 cents. The increases would apply for buses operated by both the Atlanta Transit System and its subsidiary, the Metropolitan Transit System.

Cash fare — 20 cents per ride — would remain unchanged.

In its petition, the transit company blamed the states sales tax for a need to raise fares.

The sales tax is currently being levied to an approximate total of $270,000 a year, the company pointed out. Officials contended that the payment of sales taxes for a full year would result in a total operating loss of $279,000 under present fares.

The petition asked for "urgent consideration."

Investigation Is Going at Faster Pace

Fulton Special Solicitor Paul Cadenhead said Thursday that he and his investigators are "closing in" on the "hard core" of people involved in state government irregularities.

He reported that the investigation has been proceeding at an accelerated rate in the past three weeks. "We anticipate there will be some results . . . in the near future," he said.

The Fulton Grand Jury is expected to hear more results of Cadenhead's probe during its regular session Friday.

REFUSED RECORDS

Meanwhile, the special solicitor reported that an Indiana manufacturer has refused to tell the dates he shipped thousands of dollars' worth of playground equipment to the State of Georgia.

Cadenhead said he asked for the records in connection with his investigation of sales to the State Parks Department.

The solicitor added that he expects to establish that some of the equipment was shipped long after it was paid for and only after the investigation of state government began.

NOT LIMITED

Cadenhead emphasized Thursday that his investigation is not limited to the administration of former Gov. Griffin.

"We are not investigating the Griffin administration," he said. "We are investigating wrong-doing on the state level and, like the sales tax investigation, it is an extent pre-existed the Griffin administration."

Asked to define the "hard core," Cadenhead said they were the "familiar faces around the Capitol, some of them who have not limited their activities to the last administration."

Cadenhead said he and investigators Frank Hester and Frank Grimsley during the last three weeks had "worked around the clock" some days "while the trail was hot."

They have "covered the whole state" and encountered every "gimmick" that could be used to cover up a trail, Cadenhead continued.

The Indiana firm which withheld records from the Fulton

Druid Hills Presbyterians Set Aside Pew for Negroes

Druid Hills Presbyterian Church has decided to set aside a pew for Negro worshippers, it was learned Thursday. Two Negroes were turned away from a Sunday service earlier this month.

The statement of policy regarding the seating of Negro visitors was adopted by a 16-to-13 vote with four members absent, Dr. W. E. McNair, clerk of the Session, said Thursday.

Dr. Thomas A. Fry Jr., pastor, said the statement is in keeping with policies of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. His church's membership is 1,600.

Dr. McNair said the rules apply only to public worship services and Negroes will not be admitted to services such as Sunday school, youth meetings and suppers without permission from the Session.

The statement further says a deputation from the Session will interview Negroes who repeatedly attend services "to inquire into their motive."

He said if a Negro asks to join the church, he will be examined by the Session and the Session will vote whether to receive him into membership. This has been the procedure followed by all Presbyterian churches in receiving all new members.

Dr. McNair said that two Negroes, accompanied by an out-of-town white minister, came to the church on March 1 seeking admission to the morning worship service.

One of the ushers on duty refused to seat the Negroes and the Board of Deacons of the church, who serve as ushers, requested instruction from the Session, governing body of the congregation, as to what should be done if more Negroes come to worship services.

Dr. McNair said the Session had been considering the matter about a month previous to the visit of the Negroes.

He said the Session appointed a committee to draw up recommendations on the matter Friday, March 13, and voted to hold a special session Friday, March 20, to hear the recommendations.

After approval of the recommendations

Thor Thunders Over Atlantic

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force shot a Thor missile on a fiery flight down the Atlantic Thursday night.

The Thor, a double-duty war weapon and space probe vehicle, roared aloft at 11:02 p.m. It was the 26th launching for the intermediate range ballistic missile.

The rocket carried a bright strobe light for tracking purposes. It was blinking on and off as the 65-foot Thor sped across the Florida sky and disappeared after some two minutes.

He'll Return Soon, Chiang Tells Tibet

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—President Chiang Kai-shek, driven off the Chinese mainland nine years ago, said Thursday he would lead his Nationalist forces back "soon" if Tibet continued its rebellion against the Chinese Communists.

Chiang made the fighting declaration in a 500-word message addressed directly to the rebels of embattled Tibet.

Vice President and Premier Chen Cheng said in a separate statement that the Nationalists already had helped the Tibetan anti-Communists and would increase this aid.

PARLIAMENT ACTS

The Nationalist parliament moved immediately to put teeth into the statements.

The Frontier Affairs Committee of the legislature drafted a series of proposals to give Chiang authority to commit Nationalist troops to the battle. Debate on the measures will open Friday.

Dispatches from Kalimpong, India, quoted informed sources as saying the fighting in Lhasa and vicinity had stopped but there was no indication whether a formal cease fire had been arranged.

REFUGEES BLOCKED

The sources said the Chinese Communists stopped firing first and the rebels followed. They said also that the Communists had blocked Tibetan refugees from crossing the border into India and apparently had cut off mail deliveries.

The statements by Nationalist China's leaders did not give any details on how Formosa had or could aid Tibet. Informed sources said they doubted that parliamentary approval would mean an immediate commitment of Nationalist troops and weapons.

They pointed out that the U. S. State Department has said Nationalist China would not be free to give American-supplied arms to third parties.

CHIANG MAKES BID

The 70-year-old Chiang, making his first statement since the Tibetan revolt broke out, said the Nationalists were "making every possible effort" to help the revolutionary forces.

"If you remain firm and courageous and if you continue to carry on the fight, soon I shall lead your compatriots, civilian and military alike, to join forces with you on the Mainland and to fight shoulder to shoulder for the successful fulfillment of our sacred mission for national salvation," Chiang said.

Key Nationalist officials have been meeting night and day the past 72 hours to find ways to help the anti-Red uprising in one of the world's most remote regions.

HIGHWAYS REPORTED CUT

Nationalist intelligence sources said Tibetan guerrilla forces had cut the two main highways leading from Kangtang and Sining in China into the mountain state. They said the Reds abandoned the roads and withdrew maintenance crews in the face of heavy rebel attacks.

The Communist Chinese army in Tibet, estimated by the Nationalists to number 50,000 men, now is forced to rely on air supplies, the intelligence sources said.

Killer of Stepdaughter Hangs Himself in Jail

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—A man sought in a nationwide hunt for the strangling of his pretty 13-year-old stepdaughter hanged himself in a South Carolina jail cell early Thursday and police said all doubt of his guilt was destroyed.

The stepfather, Ray E. Daughtry, 52, was arrested in Manning, S.C., about 12 hours before the body of the little girl, Shirree Davis, was found stuffed beneath her mother's bed Wednesday. Manning authorities stopped Daughtry in his pickup truck and jailed him on drunk driving charges, unaware of his connection with the child slaying here.

He hanged himself by looping his leather belt about his neck and fastening it to the top bunk of his cell. He died by strangling.

A 48-state alarm for Daughtry was issued here Wednesday after her mother, Mrs. Georgia Davis, 35, discovered the child's body lying face up beneath the box springs and mattress of a holly-wood bed. The child had been choked to death.

Daughtry, a carpenter, had kept Shirree out of school Tuesday, saying that he planned to take her Easter shopping. When her two sisters returned from school and her mother came home from work, Daughtry and Shirree were missing. A neighbor reported seeing Daughtry leave home hastily about 2 p.m. Tuesday. There were reports later that he was seen in South Georgia.

But Duval County investigator R. W. Grant said the case was closed. "From the running away of Daughtry and his suicide, all doubt to his guilt in the girl's death has been removed," he said.

U.S., Philippines Face Crisis on Bases Again

MANILA (AP)—A crisis has developed over American military bases in the Philippines. Top U.S. and Philippine leaders express belief the bases problem will be solved in talks to change the treaty under which American naval and air units are stationed here.

But in the background is a proposed resolution signed by 15 of the 23 Philippine senators. It could wreck the talks. There is agitation in some nationalist quarters to throw the American bases out.

The whole American defense ring around Red China would be affected. The Philippines is an hour jet flight from the China mainland, less from Formosa, and is the northern neighbor of rich, neutralist Indonesia.

STRAINS RELATIONS

A breakdown of the talks would damage traditionally friendly relations. Since the United States granted independence to the Philippines in 1946, the two nations have walked side by side in anti-Communist movements in Asia.

The reservoir of pro-American feeling among the 23 million Filipinos remains strong but is under stress largely because of the bases issue.

The United States has two naval bases and a huge air base here. The air base was used during the recent Formosa crisis to ferry supplies and fly air cover. One of the naval bases, largest in the Far East, is a nuclear weapons supply dump.

The key question in negotiations to revise the bases treaty is that of jurisdiction over crimes committed by American servicemen.

The Philippines in 1956 presented a formula that the United States would not accept.

It provided that U.S. courts try servicemen who committed crimes while on duty on base, and Philippine courts try those who broke the law while off duty. The problem of deciding when a serviceman is on duty was left to the top American military commander after discussion with Filipino officials.

On Bohlen's return, talks resumed with Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano, and were nearing agreement.

Then the senatorial resolution popped into the picture. It called for the Philippines to make the final decision on whether a soldier was on duty when a crime was committed.

This is unacceptable to the United States.

The Senate will discuss the resolution next week.

Rayburn Defends 'Spending'

Replies to Ike's Jabs at Democrats

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker Sam Rayburn pointed to the three-month record of the 86th Congress Thursday in an effort to refute President Eisenhower's "reckless spending" charges against the Democrats.

He said the House had trimmed about 300 million dollars from the President's 1960 budget in acting on four new money bills. The veteran Texas legislator said the House also had pulled off "quite a legislative accomplishment" in passing a total of 16 bills so far.

ROSE TO DEFENSE

Rayburn rose to his party's defense as members of the Democratic-controlled Congress headed home for a 10-day Easter recess. It will give the lawmakers a chance to sound out the home folks on such issues as government economy and the Berlin-Russian situation.

Rayburn told newsmen the record of the first 11 weeks of the new Congress showed the Democrats were not "reckless spenders." He said they intended to go ahead after the recess and "appropriate enough money to run the government and enough for defense."

TRACE OF IRRITATION

With a trace of irritation, Rayburn said he doubted that anything the Congress did with the President's budget would please Eisenhower and his administration.

"If we cut a dollar below what they want, they act like the heavens were going to fall out," he said. "If we provide one dollar more for any program, they say we are reckless spenders."

The President told his Wednesday news conference that he never applied the "reckless spenders" term to the Democratic Party as a whole during last fall's election campaign. He said he referred only to some members of the opposition party.

RECORD BUDGET

The President sent a record $77,100,000,000 spending budget to Congress in January. He said it would provide for a slim 70-million-dollar surplus in the fiscal year starting July 1. Thursday the White House said certain appropriations requests since had been pared by $27,920,000.

However, staff experts of the House-Senate Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation reported Wednesday that the President's estimated tax receipts for the new year were $1,300,000,000 too high. They predicted he would wind up with a $1,200,000,000 deficit even if Congress made no increase in his spending programs.

West Promises Summit If Ministers Pave Way

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN

(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The Western Big Three powers formally invited the Soviet Union Thursday to join them at a foreign ministers' conference to discuss Germany and to arrange a summit meeting.

Notes outlining the United States, British and French positions on negotiating agreements with the Russians were delivered in Moscow by the ambassadors of the three Allied governments. They proposed their foreign ministers meet at Geneva on May 11.

BROADER AGENDA

The promise of the Western governments to go on to the summit was made conditional on developments at the ministerial level.

The three governments suggested an agenda for the foreign ministers considerably broader in scope than that advanced earlier by Moscow. In addition to the Berlin situation and a German peace treaty, suggested by Soviet Premier Khrushchev as appropriate subjects, the United States and Britain listed "questions relating to Germany" as the main item to be discussed.

The French went further, arguing that the foreign ministers should be allowed "freedom of discussion" to talk about matters of concern to their governments.

TO NARROW GAPS

The United States note, in wording similar to that used by the British and French, advanced the following as the purpose of the proposed foreign ministers' sessions:

- "To reach positive agreements over as wide a field as possible."
- "In any case, to narrow the differences between the respective points of view."
- "To prepare constructive proposals for consideration by a conference of heads of government."

Britain and the United States suggested a summit meeting "later in the summer" if all went well. The French said merely "at an appropriate time."

FRENCH STIFFER

Another difference in wording concerned conditions under which a summit gathering would be considered justified. The U.S. note spoke of the meeting "as soon as developments in the foreign ministers' meeting justify—the British said "warrant"—it. Again, the French were stronger, asking that there be "genuine progress" among the ministers.

The date, place and subject matter for a summit meeting should be decided by the foreign ministers, the western powers said. They said the heads of government should consider and try to solve "wider problems" such as those mentioned by Premier Khrushchev in his March 2 note, to which they were replying.

Among the items the Soviet leader had listed were: European security arrangements, disarmament, mutual withdrawal of armed forces from the line separating NATO and Warsaw pact powers, setting up a zone free of nuclear weapons, reducing armed forces, and banning nuclear tests.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The United Arab Republic and Iraq have disclosed that their foreign ministers will attend an Arab League meeting scheduled for Beirut Tuesday.

Tank Crashes 3 Floors Into Building, Injures 11

NEW YORK (AP)—A 10,000-gallon water tank collapsed Thursday atop a six-story loft building on Manhattan's West Side. It dropped through the top three floors with terrifying impact, and knocked down a rear wall.

Eleven persons were injured, at least two seriously. One of them is an expectant mother. Scores of others—at work in the building or passing on streets below—were endangered.

Victims said the tank dropped with crushing force and so suddenly that there was no time for those in its path to escape the multi-ton mass of wreckage.

"I heard a crash and screams and the ceiling over my head collapsed," said Jerry Petrillo, at work at a cutting table at the rear of a third-floor binding firm. The tank came to rest above his head and he was not injured.

The mishap was similar to, although less tragic than, the collapse two days ago of a massive ice house on top of a big Oklahoma City meat-packing plant. The ice house dropped seven stories, and six persons died.

The New York City Buildings

Department said it recently notified owners of the loft building on W. 26th street between 6th and 7th avenues that the water tank was defective and needed repairs.

Three iron workers were repairing the big tank when its supports buckled about 1:30 p.m.

With a tremendous roar, the great weight of tank and water plunged down through the roof. Water, shattered window glass and sudden debris cascaded from the top three floors of the building, as though it were a gigantic lawn fountain.

LIVES TO TELL IT — LOS ANGELES—Frank Rasmussen, 35, escaped death when 20 sticks of dynamite exploded 10 feet from him in the shaft of a Death Valley, Calif., gold mine. The dynamite exploded prematurely as he was lighting the fuses. He suffered leg and back injuries.

U.S. Okays 4-Vaccine Single Shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government stamped its approval Thursday on a four-way vaccine that provides protection for pre-school children against polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Surgeon General Leroy P. Burney said the vaccine provides "safe and effective" protection against the diseases. He said its effectiveness had been proven on thousands of persons.

But Burney told a new conference the service was withholding its judgment of a new "live virus" anti-polio vaccine reported to have been tested effectively in other countries.

He said it had been under serious investigation for several years but that many more questions must be answered satisfactorily before it meets standards of the Public Health Service.

Burney stressed that the new four-way vaccine, which includes Salk shots, was designed only for children five years old or less.

He said it was "inadvisable" for older children and adults because of the "well-known hypersensitive reaction to diphtheria toxoid in full dosage in this age group."

The service Wednesday licensed two drug firms — Merck, Sharpe and Dohme and Parke, Davis and Co. — to produce the quadruple vaccine.

Burney said the four-way vaccine will not be available in large quantities for some time. He said he could not yet tell when it will be in the hands of doctors. However, Parke Davis predicts its vaccine will be on the market in August.

Rep. Alford Ballot Files Held Back

DANVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A county official Thursday rejected a federal order for delivery of ballots and vote records in the election in which Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark) unseated veteran congressman Brooks Frays.

County Clerk Fay Mathis said he took the action because he already was under a state court order to hold the documents pending outcome of litigation over a local option liquor election.

At Little Rock, U.S. Atty. Osro Cobb would not comment on possible future action.

A U. S. grand jury is investigating possible federal law violations in the general election last November when Alford, running as a write-in candidate, defeated Hays, the Democratic nominee, by about 1,200 votes in Arkansas' Fifth district. Since then Alford has been seated as a Democrat.

3 U.S. Newsmen Expelled by Iraq Fly to Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Three American newsmen flew in from Baghdad Thursday reporting they had been expelled from Iraq and given less than 12 hours to leave.

They are Winston Burdett of the Columbia Broadcasting System, William McHale of Time and Life magazines and Larry Collins of United Press International.

They said Iraqi authorities told them "you have been here long enough" and gave them no other reason for the expulsion.

Only three Western newsmen remain in Baghdad. They are Stan Carter of the Associated Press, Douglas Brown of the London Daily Telegraph and Erik Durshmid of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Somebody's Getting Mighty Desperate!

Who was it who apparently is willing to commit murder to prevent certain information from being turned over to the medical committee investigating the hospital at Milledgeville?

And who was in the car from which shots were fired at Cornelia which police there connect with an apparent effort to prevent delivery of this information? The automobile allegedly had no identifying license plates. Bullets from it struck a police car in what officers believe was an attempt to divert attention from the house of the physician who had been entrusted with the information.

The reports involved have been delivered to Dr. Bruce Schaefer, at Toccoa, under police guard.

What the documents are, we don't know. Presumably the committee will reveal their contents in its report to the governor.

But we do know that enough has been revealed to condemn any attempts to discredit the investigation and to sweep it all under the rug.

At Milledgeville, Supt. Peacock and Welfare Director Kemper apparently have lost their tempers to such an extent they regard public records as their personal property.

The reported incident Wednesday at Cornelia appears to be a desperate effort to prevent information from falling into the hands of the medical investigating committee. It follows the angry and arrogant "tell him nothing" attitude which Constitution reporter, Jack Nelson, met with Wednesday from Supt. Peacock.

It will not suffice superficially to excuse conditions at the hospital as being more of the same which have existed for a century. As its population grows, with only a small number having a chance for rehabilitation, the problem has become greater than ever before. Bricks, mortar and stone to build new human warehouses do not spell patient care. Locking up the mentally ill in greater and greater numbers in one crowded, insufficiently staffed institution is an indictment of us all.

We suggest that so-called "public indifference" to the institution is due to failure to properly inform the public as to its responsibilities. While Welfare Director Kemper has made much of improved facilities—bricks, mortar and stone—even greater problems have been glossed over or forgotten.

If the people could just once be told the facts, their attitude toward Milledgeville might change. And with the change might come a corresponding change of attitude by the politicians.

Police Dept. Still Faced With Its Basic Problem

Police Chief Jenkins' second shakeup of his department in less than two months is another move aimed at achieving the maximum results from an undermanned staff.

The transfer of supervisory personnel, which will become effective Sunday, by no means is a reflection upon those affected. It will, however, give them additional experience in the multiple phases of police work and at the same time should bring fresh ideas into operation in the various divisions.

Another healthy development is activation of the special burglary squad, comprised of members who will work overtime.

Still unsolved, though, is the department's basic problem—insufficient manpower. The point is emphasized in a new report from the Atlanta Citizens Crime Committee which shows that the local department stacks up poorly with that of other cities of comparable size when it comes to numerical strength.

The survey also confirmed the generally accepted premise that strong police coverage is a deterrent to crime.

As the committee pointed out, if Atlanta is to have adequate police protection it must be willing to pay for it.

In the final analysis the community must decide whether it will give only lip service to the importance of a well-staffed department or will provide the means for making same a reality.

Adding more strength to consideration of the basic problem was a report issued yesterday by the Atlanta Traffic and Safety Council. This constructive document, calling for better traffic law enforcement and improved handling of traffic problems in general, cited lack of police manpower as a major cause of our bad traffic record.

Everybody, including Mayor Hartsfield and members of the council, admits the need. At the same time, as the mayor and members of the council point out, the community itself must make up its mind whether or not it is willing to foot the bill. Manning the police and all departments at full necessary strength cannot be done without tax raises.

Efforts to secure additional assistance from the state—even to the granting of permission for additional tax sources—thus far have failed. Immediate improvements can be paid for only through more taxes from existing sources, principally ad valorem.

Community leadership, which helps mold public opinion, must assert itself. Meanwhile, all things which can be done administratively to improve traffic control should be done. But for the long haul, growth and inflation are whining at the door, calling for decision.

Good Friday Is Day Filled With Reverence

For Christians, especially those of the liturgical churches, this is Good Friday, or God's Friday.

It is a holy day, sacred as commemorating the crucifixion of our Lord. It has been so observed since the earliest years after the resurrection. Pamphili Eusebius, a historian of the church in the third century, noted that the day had been observed "long before his time," which was around 280 A.D.

Constantine, the first Christian emperor, made it a day of rest and meditation throughout the empire. Holy Week is, for all the liturgical churches, one of many ancient and revered symbolisms. Typical of these is the service called "Tenebrae" (darkness), which is performed in many of the Episcopal churches either on Good Friday or the eve of that day. It consists of a service of prayer and praise. But as the service proceeds the lights gradually are extinguished until at the close all are out save one. This candle, too, is hidden at the altar and then returned, symbolizing the death and resurrection of our Lord.

There are many other symbols in the worship of the week, but Good Friday is perhaps the day most crowded with worship and meditation. That it has been so through perhaps 18 centuries or more lends weight to the great truths and traditions of the Christian Church.

Sheriffs' Invitation Calls For a Fuller Explanation

Many Georgians are receiving invitations this month to become honorary members of the Georgia Sheriffs Assn. Honorary membership comes at $10 a year.

The letter of invitation states that for the $10, the honorary member will receive an identification card, a decal for his car, the monthly publication of the association—"plus the satisfaction of knowing that you have an important role in helping homeless, worthy boys."

The last-named objective is through a proposed Boys Ranch, for which, the association says, land has been secured and plans have been drawn.

A desire to help homeless, worthy boys is a noble motivation.

But as persons to whom the invitation has been extended, we think we have a right to know what part of the $10 will go to that project.

Sheriffs' associations in Florida and Alabama have been promoting a similar honorary membership project and similar boys ranches.

In Alabama evidence was developed indicating that much of the money received was to go to a printing firm outside the state.

We trust the Georgia Sheriffs Assn. is operating entirely within the state and independent of any outside promotional agency.

We would like to have the assurance—and the proof—that such is the case.

Fulton's Vetoed Bills Sought Worthy Goals

Gov. Vandiver's veto of three legislative bills affecting Fulton County comes as a disappointment to a large part of the community.

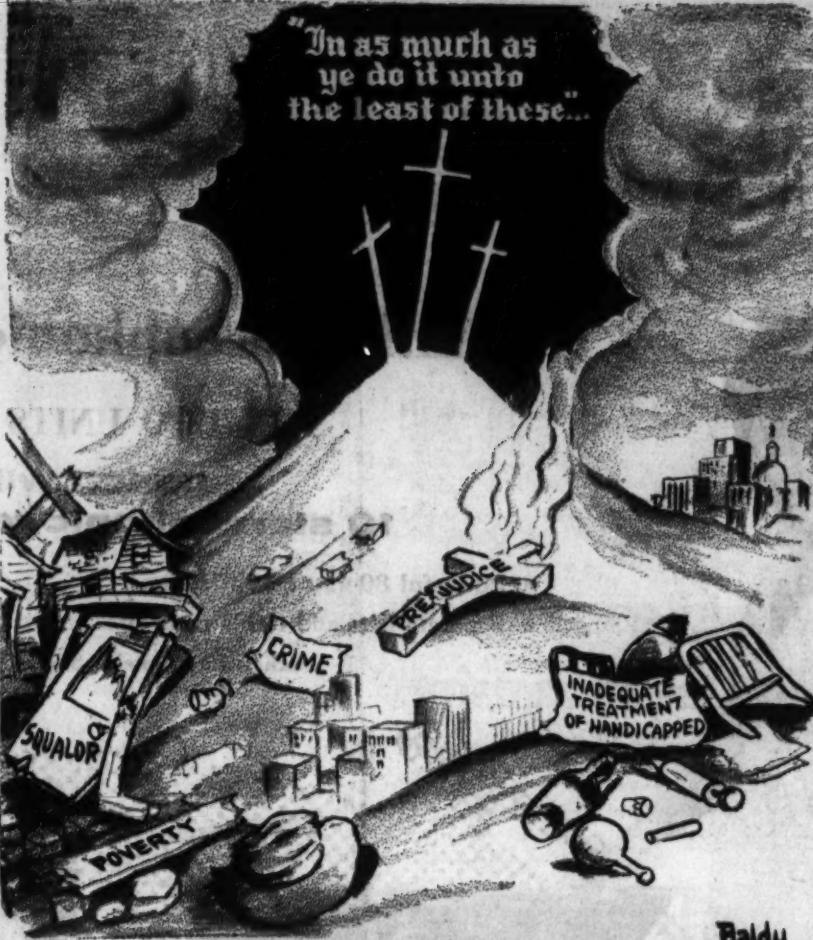

The neighborhood registration bill and the measure which would have permitted extended terms for grand jurors were designed to serve constructive purposes.

Gov. Vandiver found both bills to be out of step with state laws, which could well be in view of the fact that so many of the state's hodgepodge of laws are so out of step with the times.

The special use permit bill also was victim of the veto stamp for some reason.

However, the governor did approve an act which takes the ceiling off city business licenses. Such legislation was necessary in order for the city to make adjustments where justified in license costs. Its approval is welcomed.

As for the other three measures, the needs which they were designed to alleviate are undimmed by veto. Technicalities and conflicts that barred them this time should be resolved well in advance of the next legislative session. Atlanta's and Fulton County's needs and progress should not be held up by the state.

Georgian Charges Ezra Benson's Policies Threaten Survival of the Small Farmers

Griffin-Ralph McGill's article on Ezra Taft Benson was most interesting and I believe his evaluation of his character is accurate. For this reason, I believe it is more by accident than by design that every move he has made seems to have been calculated to destroy the small farmer and build up the large farmer.

One case in point is the contemplated discontinuance of the free allotment of 15 acres to the small wheat grower who wishes to grow and market his wheat without the aid of government largess.

Nearly all of these free 15-acre growers are in the eastern section of the United States and nearly all of them grow soft winter wheat. Absolutely none of the staggering surplus of wheat now in storage is of this variety. The demand for it is such that it is consumed as fast as it is grown.

Since the large farmers, who grow hard wheat, have created this enormous surplus, it is only fair that they bear the consequences of their own overproduction rather than have it loaded on the back of the farmer who had nothing to do with the creation of the surplus.

It may be true that the large farmer will replace the small farmer. The tractor has already replaced the mule; but it did this without any help from a government agency going out and shooting all the mules.

Is College-Age-Limit Law Hurting Higher Education?

Columbus College fortunately seems to have escaped any major reduction in new enrollments in its spring quarter due to the college-age-limit law, but such is not true of Armstrong Junior College in Savannah.

Dr. Thomas Y. Whitley, Columbus College president, said recently they were pleased to note that the new enrollment procedures, plus the 20-day entrance application deadline imposed on short notice, perhaps kept only a few students from enrolling.

It is a different story in Savannah where Armstrong Junior College, previously operated by the city, was taken over by the Board of Regents this year for the first time, however. Armstrong President Foreman Haves says the new procedure cut new enrollment for the spring quarter at his institution by 90 per cent.

The Armstrong president said if the trend continues the institution will be forced to close in two years.

Provisions of the law set an age limit of 21 for admission to colleges for undergraduate students and 25 to those seeking postgraduate work. Exceptions are made for veterans of the armed forces and for those students who have unusual ability. The General Assembly passed the law as an aid in preserving segregation.

Educators and many citizens interested in keeping higher education available to adult Georgians protested the measure and try will be destroyed and we will be under the heels of hoodlums.

How in the World Does Raven 'Quoth'?

Atlanta—Let me put my ignorant bit in regarding the controversy over children's books. One reason the old books, Bobsey Twins, etc., are not liked by these bossy librarians is probably because they are not sexy enough.

These old books breathe courtesy and kindness considered "sissy" nowadays. The fact is to be as rude as possible and a general "shove." To smile is to obtain the label of a "grinning ape."

I'm for the old books. I read what I like and not what someone else tells me to like. Seems to me Shakespeare will be banned next. Of course, these books are badly written according to the writing of this era but in that era they gave delight to thousands. I have "Thelma," which today is sticky sentimentality. Kipling, Dickens, that scare-body Poe, with his "quoth the Raven"; and tell me, just how does a raven quoth?

Change in Purchasing Applauded by Citizen

Columbus—I would like to say that never in all my years have I realized the terrible condition the State of Georgia and its citizens would be in if we did not have papers like The Constitution and, I hope, others of the same kind.

Recently we received a request from the state purchasing agent to bid on some merchandise. The previous time on an order for about $30,000 we were low, but after being visited by two men from the State Purchasing Department we were quietly dealt out of the deal.

How tremendously proud we should be of such men of the size of Mr. Collier taking over the Parks Department and Mr. Bowdoin the purchasing.

The Milledgeville Hospital situation is a stench in the nostrils of decent citizens and no doubt Vandiver will clean that out also. I have no ax to grind, but it is my hope that everyone appreciates the fine, fearless work the newspapers are doing.

A Quick Patch For Hole in One

If you would get Strontium 90 and Berlin off the mind, start contemplating in which pocket a man is likely to carry loose change. A fellow columnist has raised the question since a reader wrote to say as for himself, he carries loose coin in his left pocket. The columnist said, "I can speak only for myself, not having polled the delegation. In my case, it all depends on which pocket has the hole in it."

The hole is not so quick to arise, brethren, if you will shift that key ring from side to side day by day.

Once the rift develops, for temporary repair, pull the pocket lining to the outside. Gather the lining at the hole and wrap a rubber band tightly around the tuck. The emergency patch will hold for weeks.

Policy of Rigidity Is Gone Forever!

WASHINGTON—The Western world's diplomacy has entered a new era, full of promise and of danger. And in that diplomacy the British have resumed the Western leadership which they lost to the United States after the second world war.

To deny that it is the British who now hold the initiative might make us as Americans feel better—if we wish to look at it all as a competitive enterprise between Washington and London. But to deny it would be to reject the plainest of obvious realities.

For the Eisenhower-Macmillan decision to meet the Russians in the summer at a summit conference is now fixed and final.

The British are bound and determined to have the big show regardless of what happens at the foreign ministers' talks in between. Macmillan feels quite confident that no foreign minister or anybody else but Nikita Khrushchev can bind the Russians to anything at all, anyhow.

Nobody is going to read the fine print of our reservations no matter what we may say and hope from time to time. Thus, whether we should or should not have got into this position is now water over the dam. Realists will now prefer to look not at where we might have been but where we actually are. These, then, are the essential facts:

1. The policy of "rigidity" toward the Soviet Union so long attributed to ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is gone forever. For just as in actuality we simply must go to the summit, we also must be prepared to negotiate when we get there.
2. The whole heart of international negotiation has now passed

That Great Work Was To Continue

"Jesus said, 'It is finished'" (John 19:30). What was finished? Had the life of Christ now completed the cycle of birth and death and come to an abrupt ending? And would His words and influence die with Him? Perhaps many of those who had most loved Him dreaded to consider the apparent finality of Christ's sixth Word from the Cross.

What thoughts surged through the minds of the loved ones? We have all experienced the loss of a dear friend. We know how our lives are changed by the loss of a loved one. We know how our lives are changed by the loss of a loved one. We know how our lives are changed by the loss of a loved one.

They saw with their mind's eye joyous experiences on the hilltop and at the lakeside. They saw the crowds of spiritually hungry people whose needs had been assuaged.

All now finished? What a dreadful finality there was in Christ's sixth Word. And Mary turned wearily to John and went with him to the home he had promised to provide. And the disciples, despondent and discouraged, went wearily from Calvary to their homes and thence to the trades they had abandoned three years before.

Christ had been responsive to God's will. As a child in the temple, He had said to His parents, "Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business?" (Luke 2:49). To the disciples He had

Race for ICBM Is Still Nip-and-Tuck

NEW YORK—Despite the repeated alarms, "hard" evidence of Soviet long-range missile launching capability is still conspicuous by its absence. No verification has reached this country of numerous reports—published here and abroad—of the identification of ballistic missile launching pads. Several such reports have been investigated and were found to be erroneous.

Launching sites for both intermediate range and intercontinental ballistic missiles could, of course, be hidden—concealed in deep forests or placed underground or deep in mountainous valleys; or else they might be mobile.

But extensive underground construction would probably be detected—at least in the case of some sites—after a lapse of time. And intermediate range ballistic missiles—in Soviet types these have ranges of 700 and 1,100 miles—would have to be placed, if they were to reach allied targets, somewhere near the periphery of the Communist heartland.

Many observers believe Russia expects to utilize mobile launching sites for at least her intermediate range ballistic missiles—at sea submarines, and on land, especially designed railroad flat cars. But again there is no hard evidence as yet of any such launching systems. If Russia had hundreds of 700 or 1,100-mile ballistic missiles mounted on flatcars, some of them almost certainly would have been seen. One or more of the Soviet Z class submarines—yet built in Russia—apparently have been modified to launch what some experts believe may be short-range ballistic missiles. But so far this is the only "hard" evidence of Soviet missile launching sites anywhere.

This purely negative evidence cannot be construed to mean, of course, that the Russians have no operational ballistic missiles. In fact, other hard evidence suggests that they have a significant number—probably in the hundreds—of 700-mile missiles in the hands of troops.

Available evidence suggests that the Russians have few, if any, 1,100-mile rockets in operation.

In the intercontinental ballistic missile field the race—this year—is still nip-and-tuck between the United States and the U.S.S.R. in both development and production, according to available data. We have detected the firing of only one Soviet missile this year at a range of more than 3,000 miles.

In any case best estimates are that both the United States and the U.S.S.R. will have a few ICBMs in operation this year. If present estimates of Soviet capabilities are correct—and if the Russians utilize those capabilities to the maximum—the Russians may have roughly 100 ICBMs some time in 1960 and perhaps 500 by late 1961, more probably some time in 1962.

U.S., Bulgars Open Diplomatic Ties

Restore Links After 9 Years;
Red Albania May Be Next

(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON—The United States and Bulgaria have decided to renew diplomatic relations after a lapse of nine years. An announcement is to be made here at 11 a.m. Friday.

The State Department's decision to place relations with Bulgaria on a normal basis is viewed as a step toward establishing wider diplomatic contacts with the countries of eastern Europe, except where special political considerations may be involved.

Thus, it was said, the resumption of relations might be followed by similar action with Albania, but not with East Germany, which is not recognized by the United States as a sovereign state.

Another Communist state whose relations with the United States might be placed under review is Mongolia. The United States has never maintained relations with Mongolia, on the ground that it was not an independent sovereign state but was dominated by the Soviet Union. Mongolia thus differs from Bulgaria and Albania, whose status as sovereign states has not been questioned.

No change in the U.S. attitude toward such Communist regimes as North Korea or North Vietnam is to be expected. The United States has not recognized either as sovereign independent entities.

Nor is any change expected in the present arms-length diplomatic relations with Hungary. The United States has not sent a minister to Budapest because to do so would require him to submit credentials to the present government. Relations are handled by a charge d'affaires.

REGIME SWEEPED OUT

Before the Hungarian revolt in October, 1956, the United States assigned Edward T. Wailles to take up the post of minister in Budapest. Wailles arrived Nov. 2, during the uprising. Before he had a chance to present his credentials to the government of the late Imre Nagy, it was swept out of office by the regime of Janos Kadar.

Wailles was instructed not to present his credentials to the Kadar regime on the ground that its assumption of power was illegal. Wailles remained in Budapest until Feb. 27, 1957.

The post-World War II history of relations between the United States and Bulgaria has been an unstable one. Relations were established with the Bulgarian Communist regime in 1947. Donald R. Heath was sent to Sofia as minister.

SEVERED IN 1950

Relations continued until Feb. 21, 1950, when the United States severed diplomatic ties with Sofia as the outgrowth of controversy over Heath.

The conflict was initiated by the Bulgarians. Heath was named by a witness at the treason trial of Traicho Kostov, a Bulgarian leader. The witness said Heath had been behind espionage activities allegedly carried on by Kostov.

The Bulgarian government declared Heath persona non grata in January, 1950. The United States refused to withdraw the minister but retaliated by breaking off relations.

Following the death of Stalin in 1953 the Bulgarians re-examined the Kostov case and posthumously rehabilitated the Bulgarian leader. Simultaneously, it was announced that the evidence presented at the trial had been falsified.

Trial Delays Denied to 2 In TV Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard A. Mack and Thurman A. Whiteside, accused of conspiring to influence the award of a Miami television permit, Thursday were denied a delay of their trial set for April 7.

Chief Judge F. Dickinson Letts of Federal District Court turned down a series of defense motions requesting a postponement until fall.

Nicholas P. Chase, one of Mack's lawyers, contended that if the trial is held while Congress is in session, the defense will be unable to require several senators and representatives to appear and testify.

Without naming any lawmakers, Chase said their testimony was needed by the defense.

J. Frank Cunningham, a Justice department attorney, replied that he did not consider the testimony of any senator or representative "to be relevant or competent in this case."

The act transferring the Milk Control Commission to the Agriculture Department effective April 1 provided for the governor to name one consumer member and for the various dairy organizations to elect the other members.

Steel Is Promoting Strike Talk To Stir Scare Buying, Union Says

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union said Thursday the steel industry is "hell-bent on fomenting a strike."

"I can not emphasize too strongly our union does not want a strike," he added.

McDonald said the 1,200,000-member union shares President Eisenhower's concern over the possible impact on the economy of unwarranted price increases, particularly in steel.

Eisenhower, at his news conference Wednesday, called on labor and management to settle the steel wage issue on a basis that would not boost the price of steel.

The union's current contracts with basic steel companies expire June 30.

Referring to Hood's reply to Eisenhower, McDonald said in a prepared statement: "I submit that this answer is incontrovertible proof that the steel industry is hell-bent on fomenting a strike. This is proof of our charge that the industry is deliberately promoting strike talk to stimulate scare buying of its products."

The union leader said that since 1946 steelworkers' wages have been increased 11 times; prices have been boosted 23 times and "for every dollar of wage cost added in the steel industry, prices have been boosted $3."

Radiation Protection Shift Asked

Urge AEC Yield To Health Branch

By BESS FURMAN

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON—A government advisory committee recommended Thursday that "ultimate authority" in protecting the public from radiation be transferred immediately from the Atomic Energy Commission to the Public Health Service.

The committee's report was presented at a news conference by Dr. Russell H. Morgan of Johns Hopkins University, who headed the 12-member radiation advisory group. The report was made to Leroy E. Burney, surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service.

The report concluded that it was "unwise to continue the assignment of authority over the public health aspects of atomic energy to the same agency that has a prime interest in the promotional aspects in the field."

Dr. Morgan told reporters that the health service as an "independent agency" could push a "unified attack" on the problem, including an expanded research program to fill gaps in the present knowledge about radiation safety. In such a way, he said, "chances of finding out what really are the risks of radiation are good."

Morgan said that AEC officials had read the report and added: "The reaction interestingly is rather good from the AEC. The atmosphere has been quite friendly."

However, a number of published "leaks" as to the content of the report in advance of its release brought a different reaction. AEC Chairman John A. McCone pointed out in recent statements that his agency has the only large-scale standards and safety program in the atomic radiation field. McCone said the AEC spent $18,000,000 this year for this purpose as against less than $800,000 spent by the health service.

The committee's recommendations were strongly worded. The PHS should be granted authority "to develop a comprehensive program of control for all sources of radiation." It should be charged with the responsibility of "promulgating uniform, national standards on radiation protection." It should "take full advantage of the guidance of the National Committee on Radiation Protection"—a private quasi-official group of scientists advising to the Bureau of Standards. (The AEC has followed the recommendations of this group.)

Foundation To Lure Gifted Teens to Science

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Science Foundation announced plans Thursday for a major effort this summer to interest talented high school youths in scientific and engineering careers.

The foundation said it will sponsor special summer training programs for high school students at 106 colleges, universities and research institutions in all parts of the country.

Several thousand boys and girls, selected on the basis of high academic ability and interest in the field, will be enrolled in the summer institutes.

Through exposure to college-level programs in math, science and engineering, the youths will have an opportunity to determine if they wish to prepare for careers in these fields.

Similar programs have been offered in previous summers by individual institutions on a limited scale. They have uniformly met with an enthusiastic response from the participating students. Many of them decided to enroll in a college science curriculum after graduating from high school.

Gromyko Hosts Hammarskjöld

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was host at a lunch Thursday for visiting United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

U. N. sources said there was a possibility that Hammarskjöld would meet with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev during his stay.

HITS EDITORIAL

Dr. Peacock Denounces Constitution

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—The superintendent of the Milledgeville state hospital fired back at the Atlanta Constitution Thursday for an editorial which criticized both him and state Welfare Director Alan Kemper.

The hospital head, Dr. T. G. Peacock, took issue with a suggestion in the editorial that he should take a tranquilizer pill for his behavior when questioned by a Constitution reporter.

Peacock retorted: "I don't think these tranquilizers would do the editor of the Atlanta Constitution any good . . . he's too far advanced in yellow journalism and in his integration views. He's definitely on the pink side."

The hospital official was obviously referring to Constitution Editor Ralph McGill, but did not mention him specifically.

DENIES STATEMENT

Peacock denied a statement he purportedly made that an operation on a patient at the state mental institution was delayed because of operations on outsiders.

"I did not make that statement," he told United Press International. "We have no waiting list for urgent operations."

(The Constitution news story attributed no such statement to Dr. Peacock. The news story did state as a matter of fact that persons ineligible for medical care at Milledgeville State Hospital have undergone operations while operations on mental patients have been delayed.)

The news story said "Dr. Peacock confirmed that ineligible persons have received medical care at the hospital . . ."

"When asked about the number of mental patients awaiting operations," the story went on, "Dr. Peacock retorted: 'I don't think that's any of your business.'"

DEFENDS KEMPER

Peacock rushed to the defense of Kemper, saying: "I think Alan Kemper has done an excellent job in directing the Milledgeville state hospital. He has an excellent understanding of its needs and does as much in attending these needs as the appropriations will permit."

He added: "I think that the hospital is doing an excellent job in curing mental illness and taking care of the mental needs of the state of Georgia."

Buckhead Elks Plan Awards of 3 Scholarships

The Buckhead Elks Lodge will award three high school students $100 cash scholarships Monday night during their "most valuable student" program.

Winners of the Elks' most valuable student contests among the four Northside high schools are Thomas Scott Carlock, a senior at North Fulton, and Lacreia Ann Bowdoin, a senior at Grady. Frances Cecelia Wright, a senior at Northside, will receive the $100 Virginia Donaldson Ayers Memorial Scholarship.

Carlock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris B. Carlock, 3482 Piedmont Rd., N.E., and Miss Bowdoin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Bowdoin, 1460 Boulevard, N.E. Miss Wright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Douglas Wright, 3540 Trimble Rd., N.E.

Perfection, Power On Preview Menu

Gov. Vandiver Thursday promised protection to anyone with information for the doctors' committee studying the Milledgeville State Hospital.

His statement followed reports that a Cornellia doctor who was going to turn certain records over to Dr. Bruce Schaefer, chairman of the committee, had been threatened and was under police protection.

"Certainly anybody who's got any information . . . will receive protection," Vandiver declared.

REFUSAL QUESTIONED

"Any citizen who is threatened will receive protection, as for that matter," he added.

Vandiver said he could "see no reason" why Milledgeville State Hospital officials had refused to supply a Constitution reporter with information about how many patients were awaiting surgical treatment.

However, he added that "I don't know whether the doctors are under any obligation to furnish the information."

"You've got your question of medical ethics involved," the governor explained.

Vandiver said he did "not want to comment" on the behavior of hospital Superintendent Dr. T. G. Peacock toward Constitution reporter Jack Nelson Wednesday.

Peacock, among other things, said Nelson was "worse than the seven-year plague."

"THAT OTHER FELLOW"

Peacock also said he wanted to see Nelson "a nervous wreck as well as a physical wreck" and that he "ought to be turned over to those patients that handled that other fellow."

In other matters, Vandiver said Highway Board Chm. Jim Gillis had his approval in cancelling a route approved for the Atlanta-Greenville, S.C., interstate highway.

A route via Gainesville and Toccoa was approved last December by former Highway Board Chm. Roy Chalker and member John Quillian.

Vandiver said he understood both the federal Bureau of Public Roads and South Carolina wanted another route.

"That's a matter the state Highway Board ought to determine . . . which route would serve the greatest number of people," Vandiver declared.

Okinawa Hunts $5,000 in Gems

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—U.S. military authorities assisted local officials Thursday in trying to track down two white men who robbed a jewelry shop of an estimated $5,000 in pearls, jade and other values.

Rashid Akchurin, manager of the Caldash-Orient Trading Corp., said the men threatened the night watchmen with a pistol and knife. Both of robbers wore civilian clothes.

U.S. to Halt Hospital's VA Fund?

The national commander of AMVETS warned here Thursday that the federal government may quit giving funds for veterans at Milledgeville State Hospital.

Dr. Winston Burdine issued the warning after Atlanta Post 1 of AMVETS adopted a resolution calling on the state Welfare Department to begin spending the federal funds on veterans and to account for the expenditure of the funds.

In 1958 the federal government provided over $100,000 for the veterans home at Milledgeville.

DECLINES COMMENT

Alan Kemper, chairman of the Welfare Department, declined to comment on the resolution Thursday night. "I couldn't talk about it until I've seen it," he said.

But he added that if there is any charge his department hasn't been spending the money earmarked for veterans on veterans, "We can prove we're spending what the contract calls for in the veterans building."

Dr. Burdine, a psychiatrist here, said he was afraid the money was not going for veterans' care. "Washington is going to take that money away if it isn't handled properly," he said.

TO COMMISSION

The resolution was addressed to the state Veterans Home Commission, of which Kemper is a member. Gov. Vandiver is chairman of the commission.

The commission acts as a transfer agency between the state and federal government and the Welfare Department. It has a contract with the state hospital.

United States funds of $1.75 per day per veteran and matching money from the governor's contingency fund are given to the commission quarterly.

Dr. Burdine said the money was expressly for improving veteran treatment and care. He said it was his understanding that veterans at the state hospital were not having the money spent on them.

2 Teen Gunmen From Texas Are Seized on Plane Here

Two armed youths headed for a Florida vacation after robbing a supermarket in Dallas, Texas, Thursday were removed from a plane at the Atlanta airport, police said.

Patrolmen W. J. Hendrix and W. A. Moncrief said they recovered $1,347.76 including more than $400 which one suspect had hidden in a sock.

Texas authorities were en route to Atlanta to pick up the 15-year-olds, who were held at the Fulton Juvenile home.

In their luggage, police said they found two loaded pistols. They added each carried a switch blade knife.

After robbing the supermarket, where one was employed, they purchased new clothing and spent

$130 for the plane tickets to Miami, patrolmen said. They were traveling under assumed names. (The names of accused persons under 17 years of age are withheld in accordance with the Georgia juvenile court law.)

'Girls in Gray' Marching Again — for Centennial

Confederate WACs are on the march—again. First Civil War unit to "reactivate" under the State Chamber of Commerce's "mobilization order" is the women's company known as the Nancy Harts, of LaGrange.

The chamber has asked cities and counties to reactivate certain of the Civil War units which came from their neighborhoods as civic and social organizations to help in publicizing the state's part in the coming Civil War Centennial observances.

DATE TO 1865

The Nancy Harts were organized first back in 1865 to defend LaGrange from the dreaded Yankees, since all of the men of the town were away at war. First captain of the company was Mrs. J. Brown Morgan. The company took the name Nancy Harts after the Revolutionary heroine.

In 1865, when a detachment of Wilson's Raiders (Yankee, of course) under the command of a Col. LaGrange rode through the town that bore his name, the Nancy Harts lined up for action, but surrendered on the promise of the diplomatic colonel to spare the city from looting and destruction.

The new Nancy Harts number 25 members already, and are commanded by Capt. Mrs. Forrest Barker. First lieutenant and adjutant is Mrs. H. T. Woodard III, and second lieutenant and finance officer is Mrs. Katherine Freeman.

BOYS TO MARCH

The men of LaGrange are not far behind the ladies of the Nancy Harts. They have announced that they will reactivate the Light Guard on April 23, which is also the date of the next meeting of the Nancy Harts.

Bill Corley, of the state chamber, said that DeKalb Countians are in the midst of reactivating the 34th Georgia Infantry.

Corley said that he had listings of the popular names of units from various Georgia counties and communities, and that a name could be "reserved" by writing to him. Corley said he had listings which showed where the various companies came from, what the

DeKalb Red Cross Drive Extended To April 1 Due to Lagging Reports

DeKalb County's Red Cross fund drive has been extended from Thursday to April 1.

The chapter had to extend deadline for its $73,000 fund-raising effort "because of the slowness of reports being made," Mrs. Virginia Freeman, executive secretary, reported.

Latest report from DeKalb was $30,000 in contributions.

3rd Polio Shot Due Now

The third polio protective shot is now due for those Atlantans who took advantage of the dollar polio clinic last July and August for their first two shots.

Each person must make arrangements to get his own shot. The clinics were sponsored by the Fulton County Medical Society and were held at the Academy of Medicine at 875 W. Peachtree St., N.W.

The third shot should be taken from family physicians or local health departments, Dr. Bryan said.

Hope Seeks a Split at Loot Rock

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Hope's new picture, "Alias Jesse James," will be premiered at Meramec Caverns, Stanton, Mo., where the famous robber's gang used to hide in the 1870's, it was announced here.

Rudy Turilli, cave manager who was here to conclude arrangements for the United Artists, said the picture will be shown on a screen a stalactite throw from Loot Rock, where James and his gang split their loot.

Emory Plans Classes for 'Springtime'

The Emory University Adult Education Program for the spring quarter, which begins April 6, will offer 23 evening courses that will include classes in such springtime activities as "gardening" and "bird study."

Registration for the non-credit classes, which will meet one evening per week for eight weeks during the spring quarter, can be made at the Emory Office of Community Education.

The course on gardening will be taught by Dr. W. B. Baker, professor of biology, and "Bird Study" will be taught by Dr. Charles Hartshorne, philosophy professor who has made the study of birds a life-long hobby.

An evening course on "The Theater of Eugene O'Neill" will be taught by Kenneth Barry, director of the Emory Players, and "English for Business" will be taught by Miss Annette Sampley, English instructor.

Also on the spring quarter schedule are "Great Books," "English for the Foreign Born," five language classes, two sections on reading improvement and courses in the fields of psychology, the Bible, writing, philosophy, international affairs and public speaking.

Doctors' Day Marks First Use of Ether

Monday, the 117th anniversary of the first use of ether as a surgical anesthetic by Dr. Crawford W. Long, will again this year be proclaimed Doctors' Day.

The Womens Auxiliary of the Fulton County Medical Society, in connection with Doctors' Day, has cited the late Dr. James Newton Brawner Sr. of Atlanta for "outstanding service to his community and his fellow man. A resolution adopted by the society cited his life as "a fine example of the dedication of the medical profession to the health and welfare of the public."

Doctors' Day was started in 1933 at the suggestion of Mrs. C. B. Almond of Winder, wife of a physician and herself a nurse. For several years Georgia's governors have proclaimed the day. It has been accepted by the American Medical Assn. and is celebrated throughout the nation and in several foreign countries.

Dr. Brawner was founder of Brawner's Sanitarium in Smyrna. He was medical director there until his retirement in 1935. Dr. Brawner was also author of a medical textbook. He died March 7 at age 82.

Convict Flees at Stone Mtn. In Truck of Earlier Flight

A prisoner escaped Thursday from the public work camp at Stone Mountain, using the same truck that was stolen by two escapees three months ago, police said.

Timely Word Saves Thief 6½ Years

A judicial prod from the bench Thursday helped the memory of a defendant in Fulton Criminal Court.

The defendant, Robert Lee Cummings, a butcher, had pleaded guilty to five counts of larceny of meats from a packing house. But Cummings would make no statement.

Judge Charles Wofford sentenced Cummings to serve 12 months in prison and six months in jail on each count, a total of seven and one half years.

Then the judge suggested that he might consider a statement from the defendant as a mitigating circumstance.

Cummings said he sold the meat in question—hams, pork and the like, valued at more than $600 wholesale—to a restaurant for $140.

Judge Wofford reduced the sentence to 12 months on each count, the sentences to run concurrently.

Police identified the escapee as Robert J. Burdett, 25, of Muscogee County, who was serving a sentence for burglary.

Warden Hoke Smith refused to say how the prisoner escaped or give any other details.

"I'll have to report to Mr. Hatchett—assistant director of corrections J. B. Hatchett—in the morning," he said. "You can get your information then."

Police said the same prison truck—408—was taken by Burdett that was used by two other prisoners, Tom Hambrick and Robert Mathis, in a break from the camp on Dec. 30. The truck was recovered three days later in Decatur.

Hambrick and Mathis tied up a guard and six prisoners before taking the truck at the base of the Stone Mountain Memorial. Both were recaptured.

Gobbler Hatches Eggs for Guinea

CONWAY, S. C. (AP)—A turkey gobbler belonging to Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Parker of near here has maternal instincts.

The gobbler found a nest of guinea hen eggs, decided they needed attention, set four weeks and hatched four. The family is doing fine, too, with its foster father-mother.

Crime Body Asks for 60 New Police

Declaring the police force is "materially undermanned," the Atlanta Citizens Crime Committee Thursday urged immediate employment of 60 additional men.

The committee recommendation was in line with a move by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam to increase the police force. Gilliam sought 75 more policemen and succeeded in obtaining 15.

A survey of 14 cities of comparable size shows Atlanta has fewer police per 1,000 population than most, the committee pointed out. It said Atlanta has 1.13 police per 1,000 population while Newark, N.J., with a higher crime rate—has 3.02.

BIRMINGHAM RATE CITED

Birmingham, Ala.; Minneapolis, Minn., and San Diego, Calif., have fewer police per 1,000 population. The committee said Birmingham has 1.10, Minneapolis 1.07 and San Diego .96.

Birmingham, with half the area and 70 per cent of the population of Atlanta, equals Atlanta in the incidence of crime, the committee said. San Diego has a much lower crime rate.

Ratios of officers per 1,000 population in other cities varies from 1.16 to 2.06, the committee said. Cincinnati, with 1.39, and 60,000 more population than Atlanta reported only half as many crimes as Atlanta.

BUDGET LOWER

"The numerical strength of police is certainly not the whole answer to crime," the committee said. "Compared to other cities, the Atlanta force is materially undermanned."

Atlanta, with 126 square miles, is the third largest in territory of 15 cities compared, the committee said. The total police budget per capita here of $6.50 is lower than any other except $6.30 in Birmingham and $5.29 in San Diego.

Highest is Newark with $18.45 per capita, the committee found. It said the average would lie between $9 and $10.

"If Atlanta is to have adequate police protection, the citizens must be willing to pay for it," the committee said.

It found that the employment of 15 additional men would be "helpful but not adequate."

Liz Plans a Visit To Ex-Mate and Wife

LONDON (UPI)—Film actor Michael Wilding said Thursday he did not think it unusual that his ex-wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor, planned to stay with him and his current wife while on a visit to England.

"Why not?" he asked a Daily Herald reporter who expressed surprise at the arrangement.

"Elizabeth is coming over in May with my two sons—whom I adore. Naturally I want them to stay with me. Obviously she will come and stay as well. We are all good friends, you know."

GEORGIA NEWS ROUNDUP

Boy, 5, Drowns in Well On Farm Near Conyers

A 5-year-old boy fell into a well and drowned at his father's dairy farm near Conyers Thursday, Rockdale County Sheriff W. L. McCart reported.

The boy was Harry Parker, one of the 11 children of dairy operator W. W. Parker.

The sheriff said the boy got into a shed that covered the well and apparently fell through the planking covering the top of the shaft.

The Parker farm is on Klondike Road.

Boy's Trial Debated

Bibb County law officials are debating whether to try an 11-year-old Negro boy on a murder charge in the frying pan slaying of a 2-year-old girl with whom he was baby sitting. Georgia law permits criminal trial of children over 10 years of age "if such person knows the distinction between good and evil." The boy, Andrew Howard Jr. of Macon, has been charged with the murder of Mary Jane Howard, who died of multiple injuries by being struck with a frying pan. . . . S.M. Blesse, Brooks County farmer of the Barney community, is recovering from severe injuries after being blown 10 feet by a dynamite blast. He was loosening up soil around the roots of trees when a faulty fuse set off the dynamite explosion. Blesse's comment: "Everybody's talking about going to the moon, and I thought I'd beat 'em to it." . . . A raging forest fire was extinguished in minutes near Fargo, Ga., when a new type of chemical fire retardant was sprayed on the blaze. The fire was started as a test for the chemical. . . . Randolph Thompson of Swainsboro took part in an Emanuel County Health Department fox-trapping program. He trapped 22 foxes, also 5 opossums, 4 hawks, 2 owls, 1 bobcat, 7 skunks, 12 rabbits, 2 coons, 7 pet cats—and his brother. Thompson's brother, Kenneth, was caught in a trap while hunting.

Deadline for Allen

Attorneys for A. D. Allen, under a life sentence in the murder of Charlie Drake, a crime for which James Foster was earlier convicted and then acquitted, have been given until April 15 to file a brief in their plea for a new trial for the Jackson County man. . . . The City of Quitman has called an election for April 28 to enable voters in the city to express their opinion on the plan to issue $400,000 gas system revenue certificates.

Patrolman Injured Dodging Car Here

Traffic was heavy Thursday at Walton and Forsyth streets, N.W., where Patrolman T. M. Stripling was working.

A car bore down and Stripling jumped out of the way. He escaped the car but fell, injuring his right leg and left wrist. Treated at Grady Hospital, he was sent home for the night.

Faubus Signs Georgia-Like Elector Bill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus signed into law Thursday a bill which frees presidential electors from any political party commitment.

The bill was patterned after a Georgia law which has been hailed as "the South's secret weapon against integration." Its purpose is to place the weight of the traditionally Democratic Southern States against national party candidates whose racial views do not suit the South.

Under previous state law, electors were selected by party conventions, and while not legally bound to vote for their party candidate, they traditionally followed party lines.

The new law calls for party-selected electors to be placed on the general election ballot without reference to the names of presidential candidates.

PICK ATLANTA

Army Shows Its Latest Next Week

New scientific and technological advancements by the Army may be seen by Atlantans Monday through Friday next week on the main concourse of the Atlanta Terminal Station.

Secretary of the Army Brucker selected Atlanta to be one of the 10 key American cities to receive the huge panoramic display, Army spokesmen said.

A special ceremony at 12:30 p.m. Monday will open the exhibit, which will be open to the public free of charge.

Included in the exhibit will be materials prepared by each of the various Army corps. Entitled "This Is the Army—59," the exhibit is designed to acquaint the American public with workings of the "pentomic" Army.

HE RECEIVED GALLONS FROM BLOOD BANK
Now George Orgain Is a Volunteer In Current Campaign

He Boosts Red Cross To Repay 'Gift of Life'

George Orgain is one of the best "salesmen" for the current fund-raising campaign of the Atlanta Chapter Red Cross.

Already he has helped his wife, drive chairman for the Peachtree Arcade Building campaign unit, boost her group over the top on its individual quota.

But he keeps on working.

There's a reason:

This enthusiastic volunteer two years ago received seven gallons of vital, life-saving blood from the Red Cross.

"Who gave me the gift of life?" he muses now. "Fifty-six people who did not even know George Orgain—Atlantans who each took an hour out of their busy lives to go down to the Red Cross Blood Center and give a pint of blood."

What happened to that blood before it was fed into the veins of volunteer Orgain, then desperately ill at Piedmont Hospital, is one answer to "Where do Red Cross dollars go?"

LAB-TESTED

Blood donations are sent through a series of lab tests and clinical processing to a shelf in a Blood Center storage room. They don't stay there long. Hospitals in this area make up their "blood list," as a housewife prepares her grocery list, and the blood required that day is delivered.

It was there when George Orgain needed it—the right type, the needed quantity. It kept on being available for the six months in which he required and received 56 pints.

THEY REPAY

"I couldn't replace the blood," Orgain, back at his utilities office job, explained. "I couldn't pay for it because the Red Cross distributes this blood without charge."

But he and wife found a way to repay their debt of gratitude. They are just two in a small army of Atlanta volunteers who currently are ringing doorbells, visiting offices, telling the Red Cross story.

A total of $628,000 is needed this year to guarantee all the blood needed, the disaster and home service, all the other vital functions of the Red Cross for Atlanta. Your gift can help hard-working volunteers go over the top by their April 3 deadline.

Board Ends Hearing on Politicking

By GENE BRITTON

The State Merit Board ended a heated day-and-a-half hearing Thursday on charges that five Telfair County state employees politicked in a primary election in violation of its rules.

Board members said they had no idea how long it would take them to reach a decision on the conflicting testimony.

TO STUDY TRANSCRIPT

Merit System Director E. L. Swain said copies of a transcript of the testimony would be prepared within a week and sent to each of the board members for study. The members will come back into session at an unannounced date to reach a decision, he said.

The employees—L. G. Reaves, Allie Williams, Mrs. Maude W. Williams, Malcolm Varnadoe and Jackson Cravey—were supported by what is known as "the Old Crowd". Charges were brought against them by "the New Crowd". They were accused of participating in the Sept. 10 Democratic primary.

CHARGE POLL ACTIVITY

Witnesses testified Thursday that Mrs. Williams, a Revenue Department worker, spent the day of the primary at the polls helping voters mark their ballots.

One witness, Saxton Garrison, testified Mrs. Williams was at the polls well into the night. He said she marked about 50 ballots.

But witnesses appearing for Mrs. Williams denied the charges.

Charlie Walker, her brother, said she didn't engage in politicking at all. He said she came in around noon to vote and a little later returned to ask another brother to go to lunch with her.

RAN FOR OFFICE

Jackson Cravey, a Revenue Department employee, was charged with violating merit rules by running for the office of county Democratic Executive Committee member.

But Cravey told the board he was not under merit rules at the time he ran and was elected. He said he took the Merit Board's personnel examination on Sept. 19, nine days after the election.

He said he resigned as a committeeman the day after he took the test.

Fulton Provides 2 Nurses for Stroke Patients

The Fulton County Health Department is providing two nurses to participate in an expanded state program on rehabilitation and care of stroke patients.

Dr. James F. Hackney, county health commissioner, said the expanded state program is being financed with a research grant which was given to the cardiac division of the Georgia State Department of Public Health.

The nurses are on a full-time basis and are assigned to cardiac clinics operated jointly by the state's cardiac division, the health department, Emory University and Grady Hospital.

Atlanta Services Mark Crucifixion

Atlanta Friday will commemorate the crucifixion of Christ with a number of Good Friday services scheduled in churches of all denominations.

The Atlanta Lutheran Council, Missouri Synod, will sponsor a service from noon to 1:15 p.m. at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel. The service will be a meditation on the last words of Christ from the cross.

Christ Lutheran Church will hold a Tenebrae service at 7:30 p.m.

Threatened Doctor Keeps Gun at Hand

The Milledgeville investigation and I have only tried to help some friends, Dr. Nicholson said.

The physician said that, in addition to the affidavits, Dr. Baugh earlier had mailed other information on Milledgeville hospital irregularities to him at his Cornelia home.

Dr. Nicholson declined to divulge any details of the information. He said it was turned over to Dr. Schaefer.

Meanwhile, police still were searching for two Ford automobiles believed linked to the threat received by Dr. Nicholson.

Chief England identified the cars as a 1956 green and white Ford with a Baldwin County license and a 1957 red and white Ford with a Clarke County license. He said police were unable to get the entire license numbers on the cars.

CIRCLED BEFORE HOME
He said both cars had circled several times in the area of Dr. Nicholson's home Wednesday night.

Also being hunted Thursday were two men in another car who fought a running gun battle with a Cornelia policeman. Chief England said there might be a connection between the shooting incident and the Nicholson threat.

Chief England said he had tried unsuccessfully to get the assistance of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation in his search for cars involved in the threats.

He said he had made several calls but the GBI men seemed to be busy with other things or were out of town on some other matters.

DECOY SUSPECTED
The chief said that a police guard was posted on the Nicholson's house soon after the threat was received Wednesday night.

"There were several strange aspects about the shooting incident and it could be that the two men in the car were trying to draw the police away from Dr. Nicholson's house so that somebody else could get to the doctor," England said.

Officer Doyle Childers, cruising in a patrol car alone, jumped the two men—a white man and a tall, slim Negro with a mustache—behind South Habersham High school about 3 a.m. Thursday.

"They had broken a window in the band room, but had made no attempt to enter the building," England said.

Both men ran for their car when the patrol car pulled up and the Negro opened fire, striking the car twice. As Childers returned the fire, the men sped off with the white man driving.

Childers, who is right-handed, gave chase, firing at the car with his left hand as he drove. He said he hit the car twice. One shot shattered the back window and Childers said he believed it wounded the driver in the shoulder.

The Negro fired back during the chase. Two more shots entered the police car, one smashing the center of the windshield and the rear view mirror.

Childers said he lost the car as it headed toward Clarksville on U.S. Highway 441. He said it was a black 1956 Oldsmobile without a tag.

Another threat concerning the affidavits was received by Mrs. Henrietta Kenney, mail carrier who was warned not to take any mail to Toccoa. Her route does not go to Toccoa.

Chief England quoted Mrs. Kenney as saying the man who called her told her that the Toccoa mail included some papers for Dr. Schaefer.

England said Mrs. Kenney told him the man said "we're going to see to it that Dr. Schaefer doesn't get those papers."

Mrs. Kenney, who was just leaving on her mail route when she received the call at 4:53 a.m. Thursday, said she knew nothing of the affidavits, nothing of the Milledgeville Hospital investigation, and nothing of Dr. Nicholson's threat until after she was threatened.

She notified Chief England, who furnished her with a police escort to Clarksville, where the sheriff provided another escort into Rabun County. From there she travelled along to the end of her route in Franklin, N. C.

England said police also furnished another escort for another mail carrier Thursday whose route goes through Toccoa to South Carolina.

"It must be the work of a bunch of crackpots trying to do something for their friends—whether their friends know it or not," Dr. Nicholson said.

Dr. Nicholson said he was merely trying to help a friend when he responded to Dr. Baugh's request for assistance.

"I sure didn't know what I was getting into," he said.

Dr. Baugh, a former member of the Milledgeville hospital staff, has a private practice in Milledgeville. He left the state hospital in 1954.

He and Rep. Chandler have led a movement to bring out the facts about conditions at the hospital.

Dr. Nicholson is immediate past president of the Ninth District Medical Society and is chairman of the American Medical Education Foundation in Georgia. He has been in practice in Cornelia for 15 years. A native of Blairsville, he graduated from Medical College of Georgia.

RESCUED — MARYSVILLE, Calif. — Lois Marbut, 12, is shown after she was rescued by deputies. She was the victim of a suspected kidnapping at the hands of an ex-mental patient who was captured Thursday.

two hearings at Milledgeville State Hospital. The doctors interviewed some 25 or 30 witnesses and reviewed hospital records and other files.

Dr. Schaefer said the committee's report of its findings probably will not be delivered to the governor until next week or later.

The committee is investigating charges reported in the Atlanta Constitution in a series of articles beginning about three weeks ago. Affidavits and other statements from hospital personnel charge that:

A nurse performed major surgery, including delicate hip-nail operations, when no doctors were present; a drug research program was being conducted by a state hospital doctor who maintained a private fund furnished by drug firms with no accounting to the state; investigational drugs were being administered to patients without their knowledge or the knowledge of relatives; ineligible persons were receiving hospital treatment while operations on mental patients were delayed by a backlog of surgery; some surgical patients were being neglected, and some doctors had been allowed to remain on the hospital staff after having been found drunk on duty.

Course in Nursing
ROME—Approval of the sponsorship of a nurse trainee at Georgia Baptist Hospital was given here this week at a meeting of Voiture 1229, 40 and 8, American Legion honor society.

Balkcom said the only narcotic kept inside the compound is morphine. He said the narcotic is "kept under three locks and keys" in the prison hospital by Dr. L. V. Strickland and Dr. Frank Robbins, the prison physicians.

The warden said morphine is administered only to bona fide patients and only by Dr. Strickland, Dr. Robbins or a nurse. "Accurate, exacting records are kept on the morphine," said Balkcom, "and there is no cause to suspect any mishandling."

The warden said that during his 11 years as warden here, only benzadrine, nembutal and paregoric have been found on prisoners. In each case, he said, the drugs were discovered outside the prison walls.

GUARDS 'AMPLE'
Balkcom said his 110 guards are "ample" to handle the 2,640 prisoners and control dope smuggling. He said the guards themselves are searched to prevent possibility of their bringing in dope.

The warden said that because Capt. Stanley has headed up the dope shake-down detail "so efficiently," ex-inmates who are addicts and have friends in the prison frequently "try to smear him."

GBI and federal narcotics agents have repeatedly investigated him and other guards, Balkcom said. "He (Stanley) is clear. The addicts would like to get rid of him because he does such a thorough job of keeping dope from their friends."

PROBE CLEARS
Federal narcotics agents investigated the Reidsville prison last August when an ex-inmate, soon after release from confinement here, made a trip to Atlanta and made claims to Federal Narcotics Agent John H. Windham that a dope ring was being operated by the guards.

only in the police department but in nearly all departments."

In order to beef up traffic safety as well as other city services, the mayor said, "someone's going to have to help us get new sources of revenue—and not just leave it to me to go over (to the Legislature) and get kicked around and cussed out."

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins told the directors that additional policemen won't solve "all of our traffic problems. We've got to have public support as well."

Stepped-up enforcement of traffic laws this year, Jenkins said, is reflected in the fact that Atlanta police thus far in 1959 have booked a total of 19,147 traffic cases as compared to 16,842 made during the same period last year.

The special report presented by Snodgrass said it was concerned with "obvious lacks . . . practices and methods of procedure that are known to be wrong in the light of established standards" of traffic safety.

The police department, traffic court, traffic engineering department, traffic and transportation commission and traffic and safety council were the city agencies covered by the report.

The report found that the low salary scale of Atlanta police "presents a serious personnel problem." Since the department is undermanned, it said, it is "imperative that the best possible utilization of manpower is essential if accidents are to be controlled."

"The morale of the (police) department, never too high, has been at an all-time low the past two years due primarily to grand jury charges of corruption," the report said.

pointed by him as county registrars and provide for the appointment of registrars by the County Commissioners. He said it would have given commissioners unlimited power to appoint as many auxiliary registrars as they might think necessary.

Vandiver said the bill would "remove from the protective cloak of the Senior Judge of the Superior Court of Fulton County the power vested in him by law to fill vacancies in the Board of Registrars and give that power to the County Commissioners of Fulton County."

As to the grand juries bill, Vandiver pointed out that there are presently six terms of Fulton Superior Court. Under the bill the grand jury of each of these six terms could be continued in session beyond the term by order of the court.

"I have grave reservations as to whether under our system of jurisprudence the removal of all limitations on the duration of grand juries would serve the best ends of justice," he said.

HELP KEEP ATLANTA THE DOGWOOD CITY

This year Charles Hudson thinks that Dogwoods will reach their peak of beauty between April 15 and 20, unless real warm weather advances their blooming a few days. When Dogwoods are blooming the Greater Atlanta area is most beautiful. As we destroy our wooded areas we must preserve this beauty by planting Dogwoods in our yards and gardens.

DOGWOODS

We offer several sizes of white, pink and the New Cherokee Chief (red) Dogwoods. All the sizes listed are nursery grown, balled and burlapped, graded and selected.

WHITE
3 Ft. to 4 Ft.	2.95	5 Ft. to 6 Ft.	6.95
4 Ft. to 5 Ft.	4.95	6 Ft. (Heavy)	9.95
PINK

about the prison in Fulton Criminal Court in Atlanta this week had not been at Reidsville since he was released Nov. 5, 1954, from a five-year burglary sentence.

Warden Balkcom identified the dope addict as John James Eskew. Balkcom said the man has a crime record dating back to 1937 on a variety of arrests, convictions and prison terms.

'NOT CRY BABIES'

Charges ranged from disorderly conduct, vagrancy and drunkenness to burglary, automobile larceny and transporting females for immoral purposes. The ex-inmate served time at the Leavenworth Federal Prison in 1939 for violating the Mann Act.

"We're not cry babies," said J. B. Hatchett, assistant director of the State Department of Corrections. "I'm tough and I can take criticism and use it wisely if it's constructive."

"But I don't attach any earth-shattering significance whatsoever to the statement of a convict who would stand on his head and sign an affidavit swearing anything," said the number two man in charge of Georgia prisons.

IS 'NO RING'

Warden Balkcom said there is "definitely no dope ring at Reidsville." He said a shake-down detail supervised by Capt. D. L. Stanley finds drugs from time to time on prisoners returning to the compound from work details.

Last year, the warden said, a prison administrative employee was caught selling paregoric. The employee was fired.

"Capt. Stanley maintains a daily, close watch on dope and I have utmost confidence in him and the shake-down detail," the warden said.

Balkcom said the only narcotic kept inside the compound is morphine. He said the narcotic is "kept under three locks and keys" in the prison hospital by Dr. L. V. Strickland and Dr. Frank Robbins, the prison physicians.

The warden said morphine is administered only to bona fide patients and only by Dr. Strickland, Dr. Robbins or a nurse. "Accurate, exacting records are kept on the morphine," said Balkcom, "and there is no cause to suspect any mishandling."

The warden said that during his 11 years as warden here, only benzadrine, nembutal and paregoric have been found on prisoners. In each case, he said, the drugs were discovered outside the prison walls.

GUARDS 'AMPLE'

Balkcom said his 110 guards are "ample" to handle the 2,640 prisoners and control dope smuggling. He said the guards themselves are searched to prevent possibility of their bringing in dope.

The warden said that because Capt. Stanley has headed up the dope shake-down detail "so efficiently," ex-inmates who are addicts and have friends in the prison frequently "try to smear him."

GBI and federal narcotics agents have repeatedly investigated him and other guards, Balkcom said. "He (Stanley) is clear. The addicts would like to get rid of him because he does such a thorough job of keeping dope from their friends."

PROBE CLEARS

Federal narcotics agents investigated the Reidsville prison last August when an ex-inmate, soon after release from confinement here, made a trip to Atlanta and made claims to Federal Narcotics Agent John H. Windham that a dope ring was being operated by the guards.

Rights Unit to Look Into Housing Here

U.S. Commission To Hold Atlanta Hearing Next Month

By ALBERT RILEY

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—When the Civil Rights Commission holds a public hearing in Atlanta next month, it will seek to determine if Negroes are being denied equal opportunity in housing.

The commission has had no complaints from Atlanta and has said that the hearings there and in other cities will be approached with no preconceived solutions.

However, the line of questioning the commission took in a New York hearing, and apparently will pursue in Atlanta, indicates some thinking along the line of legislation to prohibit racial discrimination in public housing.

The commission, which has no enforcement powers, is simply a fact-finding agency and is collecting information on which to base recommendations to Congress to curb discrimination in voting rights, housing and public education.

A hearing on school integration problems was held recently in Nashville, Tenn., and there the commission decided to hold hearings on housing discrimination in New York, Atlanta, Chicago and Los Angeles, as being representative cities of the North, South and West.

The Atlanta hearing, set for April 10, will be the second on housing, the first having been held in New York last month. Hearings are scheduled for Chicago on May 5, and Los Angeles on July 9.

The Atlanta Constitution learned here Thursday some of the specific questions the commission is interested in and likely will ask in the Georgia hearing.

The paper's Washington bureau also learned that the Atlanta hearing probably will be conducted by a commission subcommittee including commission chairman John Hannah, president of Michigan State University; Vice Chairman Robert G. Storey, dean of Southern Methodist University Law School, and former Gov. Doyle E. Carlton of Florida.

No location for the Atlanta hearing has been announced. No subpoenas will be issued for witnesses and the panel will rely on voluntary testimony.

QUALITY OF HOUSING?

The commission is interested in getting in Atlanta the answers to the questions:

1. What is the quantity and quality of housing occupied by or available to minority groups, and how does this differ from the housing situation of others?
2. What difficulties are encountered by minority groups in finding decent, safe and sanitary housing, and why?
3. To what extent have these difficulties been overcome, and what accounts for considerable new housing built in Atlanta for Negro occupancy?
4. To what extent do patterns of residential segregation exist and what is the cause?
5. What are the effects of inadequate or segregated housing in terms of crime, juvenile delinquency, disease, race relations, public education, property values, the municipal tax base and general standards of city life?
6. What state and local laws, policies and programs have been adopted to accomplish equal opportunity to adequate housing on a non-discriminatory basis?
7. What is the effect of federal housing laws, policies and programs on the housing patterns and problems of minority groups, and on the state and local housing problems?
8. What proposals should the commission consider in appraising federal housing laws and policies and in making its recommendations to the President and Congress?

In seeking the answers to these questions, the commission has expressed an interest in these aspects:

1. Comparative statistics on white and non-white trends in housing, population and area expansion.
2. Comparative statistics on white and non-white income and information about zoning practices, problems of site locations for non-white housing and problems of areas in racial transition.
3. The role of Negro and white financial institutions, real estate brokers and builders, especially the role of the West Side Development Corporation.
4. The degree, if any, to which residential segregation or de-segregation is increasing or decreasing, to what extent this is forced or voluntary or forced by public policy.
5. The effect of federal housing programs on residential segregation patterns.
6. Whether unequal or segregated housing contributes to the "demoralization" of minority groups in Atlanta as New York testimony said it does to Negroes

British Post Office Goes Out Upon Town

Car Runs Wild, Kills Trucker

A tobacco firm truck driver died Thursday after he was struck by an out-of-control car driven by an 18-year-old boy in East Point.

Bonnie Beam, 61, of Morgan Falls Road, Dunwoody, was struck while standing beside his parked truck by a car driven by Harry R. Whitaker, of 2706 Hogan Rd., East Point. He died at Grady Memorial Hospital.

M. A. Copeland, assistant manager for the J. B. Withers Cigar Co., where Beam worked, said that Beam's 23 years service with the company had been accident-free.

Police said that Whitaker's car turned right onto Connally Drive from Main Street, struck a car in a filling station, and continued 75 yards on the right hand sidewalk. The report stated Whitaker's car hit a feed box in front of a store before crossing to the left side of the street and striking Beam.

The runaway car struck Beam's truck and another truck parked immediately behind it and stopped on the Durham Grocery Store property, the report continued.

East Point police booked Whitaker on charges of disorderly conduct—reckless driving; striking a pedestrian with an auto, and failing to have his car under control.

Whitaker, who was driving his father's car, said he got his operator's license about six weeks ago. He said the accelerator stuck and he could not control the car. "I tried to miss that man, but I couldn't," he said.

Police said the death was East Point's first traffic fatality since December, 1965.

Colorful Bolshoi Ballet Comes Alive in Red Film

By WILLIAM B. POPE

Since Atlanta audiences will likely not get a gander at Moscow's famed Bolshoi Ballet troupe during its U.S. tour next season, the Technicolor first-run feature currently playing at the Fine Art Cinema should be of unusual interest to spectators and students alike.

The film is "The Ballet of Romeo and Juliet," with music by Sergei Prokofiev. Filmed on mighty sets near Yalta against Renaissance backgrounds, "Romeo and Juliet" utilizes the imposing resources of the Bolshoi company—the traditions of which date back to czarist regimes.

The center of attraction is, of course, the Bolshoi's prima ballerina, Galina Ulanova. At 46, she has become a legend in the world of dance. And, although nobody would deny her figure is a bit hefty for the role of a 16-year-old girl, there's no denying the vibrant grace and elegance of her movements. But it is the tremendous scope of the exterior scenes—the folk dance carnival and duel between Mercutio and Tybalt—that lend the greatest vitality to the production.

There are occasional flashes of grittiness in the sound track, but as a whole the music comes through beautifully. The color, a Soviet process, is magnificent.

Since the Bolshoi's opening night price in New York next April is pegged at $40 per seat, 90 minutes of "Romeo and Juliet" on the screen by the same company must be called a bargain.

and Puerto Ricans in that city.

7. Information on voluntary efforts to negotiate and conciliate racial housing problems, such as the work of the West End Mutual Development Corporation.

8. What the effect would be on housing problems in Atlanta if a federal policy is adopted requiring the end of all racial discrimination or segregation in housing projects or programs financially assisted by the federal government?

State Vows Liquor Aid To Sheriffs

Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford ordered his liquor enforcement agents to cooperate more closely with local officials after a delegation of some 50 sheriffs conferred Thursday with Gov. Vandiver.

The sheriffs protested that the state agents have been working too closely with federal agents in liquor cases.

Many of the sheriffs in the delegation are on the fee system.

Oxford commented later that he thought the sheriffs "have a point" and thought it "reasonable" that they should want to collect fees.

The commissioner said he did not think there was any intent or design in his agents' working with the federal agents but conceded that sheriffs had been complaining for more than a month.

Oxford ordered his agents to work with local and state officials and through state courts except under "unusual circumstances."

Sheriffs on fee systems get part of the costs in cases made in state court. The counties get the fines. Counties and sheriffs get no revenue from cases made in federal courts.

Opening lead: Three of A.

It might not be obvious why with only two trumps in dummy and no possibility for obtaining any ruffs, it might be to declarer's advantage to postpone the drawing of trumps. The explanation sometimes lies in the communication factor that is present. For further clarification let us examine today's hand.

The contract was natural enough. North responded to the opening bid with a call of one no trump. South, having a trick-taking capacity of about seven tricks, jumped to three hearts, an invitation which North willingly accepted. His no trump was based upon nine very good points. His problem was whether to proceed in no trump or raise partner's suit. It was a close question and he chose the latter.

West opened the three of spades, which declarer won in his own hand with the king. Seeing no need for dummy's trumps, he drew three rounds of hearts. Then came a low diamond and West, of course, ducked and the queen held the trick. Now South was faced with the problem of getting out of dummy in order to lead another diamond. It would have been a great convenience to recall one of those hearts which North was dealt. However, declarer had no choice but to lead a low club toward his hand. He went up with the king. West took the trick with the ace and drove out dummy's ace of spades to assure four tricks for the defense—two clubs, a diamond, and a spade.

Upon winning the opening lead, declarer should lead a diamond at once (though he can afford to take just one round of trumps). West will probably play low and the trick will be won in dummy. Now a heart lead puts South in and trumps are extracted. The next diamond lead sets up which declarer can discard his losing spade. He can then lead toward his club tenace in the hope of setting up an overtrick, but this play fails to materialize.

It would have been a great convenience to recall one of those hearts which North was dealt. However, declarer had no choice but to lead a low club toward his hand. He went up with the king. West took the trick with the ace and drove out dummy's ace of spades to assure four tricks for the defense—two clubs, a diamond, and a spade.

Upon winning the opening lead, declarer should lead a diamond at once (though he can afford to take just one round of trumps). West will probably play low and the trick will be won in dummy. Now a heart lead puts South in and trumps are extracted. The next diamond lead sets up which declarer can discard his losing spade. He can then lead toward his club tenace in the hope of setting up an overtrick, but this play fails to materialize.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

By Dr. Sarah Jordan

One Man's Meat Another's Poison

Many of us confuse our likes and dislikes with what we have found to agree or disagree with us. I once knew a dear little 2-year-old being brought up very carefully to eat only those foods which were "good for her." When offered a piece of candy by a hostess she would always turn to her mother and say, "Do I like this, Muvver?" Needless to say, the confusion in that little girl's mind lasted only through her very young childhood.

Since the field of allergy has come into our lives the saying that one man's meat is another's poison has taken on new meaning. Perhaps you didn't know that allergy is a relatively new field of medicine. It concerns, as we all know, the excessive sensitivity of some human beings to certain foods, and also to many other things in life besides food—for instance, cold or sun or feathers or dust.

The specialist in this field has taken his place of dignity and great usefulness to all other branches of medicine. He is usually called an allergist and, in addition to knowing medicine in general, he must be a very good detective. By his skill in detection he even saves lives at times.

For example, I once saw a young woman in an acute asthmatic attack at a dinner party. Her life was actually endangered. The allergist in question was able to quickly suspect and indicate some innocent-looking chrysanthemums which decorated the room, and by relieving the attack and "desensitizing" the patient he made life safe for her even among chrysanthemums.

There is a word, Greek derivative, anaphylaxis, which figures prominently in this field. This means the reaction of acute susceptibility which some people show usually to a foreign protein. Hives, hay fever and sickness caused by the use of certain drugs, such as penicillin, cause these so-called anaphylactic reactions in certain people. In fact, when it is known that a patient cannot take penicillin without a reaction, that fact is blazoned across his hospital chart so he can be protected against it.

Such is the progress of medicine that the meat for one and poison for another in the old saying is now explained—it's not just an old wife's notion; it has an entirely scientific explanation.

(Dr. Jordan cannot undertake to answer personal questions by mail. However, questions of general interest relating to health will be discussed from time to time in this column.)

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"It is the duty of the housewife to attend to the minor details of the home. Men are usually absorbed in their work and the major affairs of the family."—Advice column quote (as if they didn't.)

Suddenly, it comes to pass... The motor "phhtts"; you're out of gas... And then you walk a mile or more... To find some little roadside store... Knock on the door and ask some man... If he will let you have a can... Of gasoline to start your car... Careless fellow, that you are... Your wife told you, an hour ago... The gasoline was getting low.

Suddenly, again she'll say... "Did you mail my card today?... Cousin Sue will take it hard... If she doesn't get a card... On her birthday, since she sends... Them to relatives and friends..." Careless fellow, you have failed... Susan's card is still unmailed.

Suddenly, you find yourself... Almost ready for the shelf... Not much different than you were... On the day you married her... Stupid fellow, you have not... Profited an awful lot... From your errors of the past... That is why you're so harassed... By the little things in life... AND your ever-loving wife.

22 in Madrid Die In Flu Outbreak

MADRID (UPI)—Health authorities said Thursday that at least 22 persons had died in an influenza epidemic that swept through the Madrid area this month.

Dr. Jose Fernandez Tucegano, chief of the Provincial Medical Service, said the last death occurred Saturday and indicated that he thought the worst of the outbreak was past.

NOT SO DEEP

By FRANK WELLS

We're Sorry, Chattanooga, But the General's Ours

"All the winners laugh and sing, and the losers holler, Deal!" The United Daughters of Confederacy in Chattanooga are doing their level best to get a new deal on the General, the famous Civil War locomotive now in Chattanooga's Union Station, and slated to be moved to a museum at the Stone Mountain Memorial in the future.

Mrs. C. A. Barker, president of the Missionary Ridge Chapter of UDC, and Mrs. F. D. Gwin, past president of the Tennessee Division, UDC, wrote me a long letter setting out the points of logic which they believe will convince me that the General should stay in Chattanooga.

The ladies are very convincing arguers, but I'm not the one they should be trying to convince. They should write to Matt McWhorter, chairman of the Stone Mountain Memorial Assn., who has already said he'd give up his right arm before giving up the General for his museum.

The UDC has got up a petition asking Governor Vandiver to let the General stay in Chattanooga. They've got a lot of signatures, too, but none from Georgia, I'll bet. And, ladies, folks in Chattanooga can't vote in Georgia—at least, not yet.

One of the local movie houses in Chattanooga cashed in on the controversy and is showing Walt Disney's "Great Locomotive Chase" again. The UDC got folks who went to the movie to sign their petition.

But the General is coming back to Georgia, ladies. It's tough on you history-minded folks in Chattanooga, and we folks down in Georgia commiserate with you, and are sympathetic listeners, and are just as sorry as we can be, but we'll be up after OUR engine one of these days. Take care of it for us, hear?

America's Sweet Tooth Is a Big One

A handout from folks who publicize America's candy industry reveals that Atlantans will eat 596,900 pounds of candy during the Easter holiday. Well, they won't actually eat all of that. There will be a tremendous number of Easter eggs hidden which will never be found—or not until about July Fourth, when little sister will find it and eat it, and ants and all, and get a tummy ache worse than the one she had after the Easter egg hunt.

The candy consumed by Americans as a whole, would if laid end to end, make 15 round trips between Egg Harbor, Wis., and Easter Islands, a total distance of 149,930.5 miles.

Those aren't my figures, but the release says there will be more than 215,000,000 pounds of candy consumed during Easter, and that should be enough to stretch the miles.

One pound of bubble gum will do it.

Daily Guide—Make sure you know just what you have to do and keep well within the rules and regulations. Important people, officials and those at the top may restrict your movements, criticize or set you difficult tasks. It will pay to be absolutely practical and down to earth. Capricornians and Arians may find conditions discouraging.

Tomorrow slightly better, but the weekend is not likely to be favorable for travel, or for all kinds of communications, especially Sunday evening through Monday morning.

Happy Birthday, Aries! Your ambitions may have to be toned down this year and next as you have to work harder to maintain your position. Watch out that domestic matters do not cause difficulties with career next month.

In September personal relationships will need careful handling. If you can travel you could benefit, or you may reap rewards through professional contacts. In June and December fortunate circumstances can ease things.

Run-Down? Always Tired? Special Tonic acts 3 ways to Rebuild Strength

Not just for iron-deficiency anemia—special way reactivates nerves, stimulates appetite.

Korea Honors Rhee Birthday

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A national holiday was declared Thursday on the 84th birthday of Syngman Rhee, first and only president of the Korean Republic.

A crowd of 30,000 serenaded the aged political leader and his Austrian-born wife, Franceska, at a rally in Seoul's National Stadium. Smaller celebrations were held throughout the nation.

Rhee appeared in good health, and clapped enthusiastically as 2,000 teen-age girls bowed in unison before him while doing a folk dance in traditional costumes.

Liner Rams Oil Tanker, Killing 4

marks the last night of a sea voyage. The liner was due in New York at 8 a.m.

The groggy passengers—at least one woman with a babe in arms—streamed to the rails of the Santa Rosa, tugging life jackets over their clothing. But there was no need for them to abandon ship. The Santa Rosa's only damage was above the water line.

The Valchem was the more grievously wounded of the two vessels. Her stern was almost taken off. She was wallowing helplessly in the sea when the Santa Rosa resumed her voyage seven hours after the collision. But the tanker appeared in no danger of sinking, and a skeleton crew remained aboard while tugs prepared to bring her in.

The 20,000-ton Santa Rosa, 564 feet long, was one of the most modern vessels afloat. She was put in service by the Grace Lines only last June. She carried the last word in navigational safety devices, including radar.

The collision came in calm seas. The weather was hazy but visibility was half a mile.

Grace Line, the Santa Rosa's owner, blamed the collision on a sudden right turn by the tanker.

The 10,416-ton Valchem, 523 feet long and carrying a crew of 42, was five hours out of Jersey City.

The Valchem was in command of Capt. L. L. Murphey, 33, of Lynchburg, Va., a merchant mariner for 15 years.

The inbound Santa Rosa, a 25-million-dollar beauty standing tall and proud from the sea to the height of an eight-story building, was five hours away from New York and the end of a 12-day luxury cruise. Her last ports of call had been Nassau and Port Everglades, Fla.

The liner was skippered by Capt. Frank Siwik, 50, of Garden City, N.Y., with the Grace lines 29 years and a master since 1937.

At 3:15 a.m., the Santa Rosa flashed the first word of the collision.

"Collision with tanker. No distress," a calm message said.

probe was listed by Cadenhead as American Playground Device Co. of Anderson, Ind. The refusal was made by its president, Warren P. Miller.

The Indiana firm's equipment was sold to the state through Hart-Rollins Furniture Co. of Bainbridge, which has sold tens of thousands of dollars' worth of goods to the state during the Griffin administration.

Miller wrote Cadenhead that "should you require any additional information, please direct your request to us through Mr. R. W. Rollins, Hart-Rollins Furniture Co.; for your request necessarily must be reconciled with their wishes, of course."

Cadenhead said Rollins would not supply the records.

Rollins is ex-Gov. Griffin's neighbor and appointee to the State Board of Corrections. He appeared recently before the Fulton Grand Jury when it was hearing testimony on Parks department sales. Rollins was in the jury room only briefly. Cadenhead said he decided to release the information about the Indiana firm only after he had given Miller a second chance to produce the shipping dates.

New Purchasing Supervisor W. R. Bowdoin personally called the Indiana firm Thursday on Cadenhead's request. "I didn't get any further than he (Cadenhead) did," Bowdoin reported.

British Plan Huge A-Plant

LONDON (UPI)—Plans to build the world's biggest atomic power station were announced Thursday by the British Central Electricity Board.

Officials said the plant would be capable of generating enough power to provide light for a city with a million people. It will cost about 280 million dollars and probably will be built at Oldbury-On-Severn in Western England.

Druid Hills Presbyterians Reserve Pew for Negroes in 'Compromise'

mendations made by the four-man committee, the report was drawn up and read to the congregation following the morning worship service last Sunday.

Dr. McNair said that the pew where the Negro visitors would be seated has not been designated as yet.

In regard to the deputation that will call upon Negroes who repeat visits, Dr. McNair said, "My own assumption is that the deputation would bring a report to the session which would decide if they were attending for the purpose of worshipping and the Session would then decide if they would be seated in the future."

Dr. Fry said, although he serves as moderator of the session, he does not cast a vote. He added that he did not appoint the committee or meet with them in their discussions.

"I find nothing in this statement out of accord with the standards of our Presbyterian church, the pronouncements of our Southern Presbyterian Church... the historic pattern of seating in our churches, or out of keeping with the position of other Presbyterian churches in Atlanta," he said.

Druid Hills Church has been host to several integrated meetings in the past, including last month's supper meeting of the Atlanta Christian Council.

The General Assembly, highest court of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., will meet in the church in April and Negroes are among the delegates to the assembly.

He said the special pew arrangement would not apply to meetings such as the Christian Council and General Assembly.

Those who served on the committee drawing up the statement with Philip T. Howard, Howard H. Burns, James B. Green Jr. and Guy W. Mayes. Dr. McNair said that Mayes did not concur in the recommendations of the committee.

The Session stated they considered these rules "a compromise" between the two extreme views in the church—"one that we admit Negroes with no restrictions whatsoever and another that we bar them unequivocally."

The Session added, "We recognized that the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church is not our church, but Christ's church, and that we were committed to seek His will."

Dr. McNair said although the Session was divided on the matter, each elder at the time of ordination vows that "even if the decision goes against him, he will abide by the will of the majority."

He added that when the full statement was read to the Session preceding the Sunday service, no one voiced disagreement.

Panel Maps Insurance Code Shifts

A joint legislative committee has organized to study a revision in the state's insurance code and has called for suggestions from interested persons.

Rep. Howell Hollis of Muscogee County, chairman of the Committee on the Proposed Insurance Code, said his group has no plans for additional public hearings. But he asked anyone interested in the bill to submit any new recommendations to the committee. Recommendations should be mailed to Room 337-A, State Capitol, Atlanta.

Hollis said the committee will begin work April 15 and hopes to complete redrafting House Bill 115, the insurance code revision, as quickly as possible "so that ample time will be available for details and careful consideration of the final draft."

The committee has and will continue to study all suggestions made at public hearings in January before the House Insurance Committee.

Sen. Barry Wright Jr. of Rome is vice chairman of the group and Rep. Ed Wilson of Bibb County is secretary.

Other members are Sens. R. E. Cannon of Clayton, Clarence E. Barrett Sr. of Cleveland and A. T. Land of Allentown, and Reps. Wilson B. Wilkes of Cook County, David C. Jones of Worth, W. T. Jones of Crawford, Porter Carswell of Burke, Talmadge Echols of Upson and J. Roy McCracken of Jefferson.

Jesup Chief Takes Job at Forest Park

John B. Widener, former Jesup chief of police, will assume his new duties as chief of the Forest Park police force on or about April 1, Forest Park City Manager Norman E. Tucker announced.

Widener, 47, has a total of 18 years police experience, Tucker said.

"Chief Widener has an exceptional record as a law enforcement officer and has developed an excellent department in Jesup," Tucker said. "I feel that Forest Park is most fortunate in securing his services," he added.

Widener is married and has a daughter. He is a member of the Jesup First Baptist Church.

City Completes 10-Mile Street Surfacing Jobs

Completion of resurfacing of more than 10 miles of streets, 3 1/4 miles of which lie in the city, was announced Thursday by city construction chief Ray Nixon.

Improvement of nine miles of Lee street, extending from the south limits of College Park to Rose circle, was done by the State Highway Department, Nixon pointed out. He said about two miles lie inside Atlanta.

At the same time, Nixon said the city and DeKalb County have cooperated to complete resurfacing of one-half mile of Briarcliff road from Moreland avenue to the city limits; one-half mile of Rosedale road from Briarcliff road to the city limits, and a one-fourth mile stretch of Glenwood avenue from Moreland to Flat Shoals avenue.

All the short stretches lie in the DeKalb County portion of Atlanta.

Pope To Speak Tomorrow to All the World

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican radio and a hookup of networks will broadcast the Easter message of Pope John XXIII throughout the world Saturday.

The 77-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church will begin his message at 2 p.m. EST. Vatican radio will follow the broadcast with translated versions in various languages. Hooked up with the Vatican radio to transmit the pontiff's message will be Italian, Swiss, Spanish, Austrian, Irish, Dutch, Radio Free Europe, United States and Canadian networks.

He Taught His Five Citizenship

When this week's senior citizen counts his assets, he turns not to his bankbook balance, but to children who have grown up to be good citizens, loved and respected by all who know them.

Looking back over his life, J. R. Cook declares, "We worked to train our children to be good citizens — raised all five to the age they are (26 to 49) without ever being in any trouble."

Mr. Cook, president of the Golden Age Club for Techwood and Clark Howell Homes, will be saluted Saturday morning on the senior citizens program, sponsored by the Atlanta Chapter, American Women in Radio and Television, in cooperation with Community Services Tri-County Committee on needs of elder folk. The panel for Saturday's "After 65 — What?" telecast will discuss housing for older people.

The outstanding senior citizen, who is a council member for the Golden Age Club of Atlanta, was born in Union County, near Blairsville. After his marriage, he bought a small farm in old Milton County, now north Fulton, where they reared their family of five — one boy and four girls.

In 1915, Mr. Cook joined the Union Little River Baptist Church, where he was clerk for 18 years.

When their youngest daughter was 8, the Cooks moved to Atlanta, where he worked for Allis-Chalmers in the parts department.

The financial problem of raising five children was always a pressing one, he recalled, but not the most important to Mr. and Mrs. Cook. They were more deeply concerned with a more far-reaching goal — training their youngsters to be good citizens. A goal they have achieved in every respect.

Mrs. Cook is a heart patient, and much of her husband's time is devoted to her care, but he has found an opportunity for many hours of work with the Golden Age Club. His enthusiasm for the organization is boundless.

"The older people need a place where they can discuss their problems, learn crafts to occupy their time," Mr. Cook explained. "At the club, we play games they know, sing songs remembered from the old days and, once a year, some get the opportunity to go to camp. We need more of these Golden Age clubs. We need more people to help the Golden Agers enjoy life."

His friends declare Mr. Cook "doesn't have time to think of himself — he's too busy working for others."

You Can Golf in Anything, Just Be Sure It's Decent

By YOLANDE GWIN

Miss Patty Berg, a favorite on the golf links for more than a quarter of a century, was talking about the game and scads of admirers and golf fans were huddled around listening.

She was saying things like "keep the head steady" and "stance, balance and grip are three points that make or break a game" and "to get off to a good start think of the ball first and then the turf" and illustrating the palm and finger grip, when and how to use certain irons.

A little boy asked her, "Miss Berg, are you going to do all that Sunday, too?"

"Yes, son, this and plenty more I hope," answered the red-haired golfer who has a combined total of 81 amateur and professional victories and has collected more than $120,000 prize money.

PLENTY MORE

So that's what Atlantans can expect—"and plenty more"—when the famous woman athlete plays in the Masters Preview Golf Exhibition on the North Fulton course at Chastain Memorial Park.

She will be the first woman to play in this, the second annual exhibition sponsored by the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the War Veterans Posts of Greater Atlanta. The other players here Sunday will be Tommy Aaron, George Bayer and Arnold Palmer, all national figures in the golf world.

Since the event takes place on Easter Sunday — starting time is 2 p.m., it's nice to know that Miss Berg will wear her usual golf attire. No Easter "trimmings."

"I always wear skirts and as blue is my favorite color I plan to wear perhaps a white shirt trimmed in blue, my favorite

An Amusing Gadget Pin

A few weeks ago, I told you that the flower pin — jeweled or enameled — was one of the smart costume jewelry fashions of the season. Now we've added the bees and the birds to the flowers — and some of the animals as well. A collector could assemble a whole little jeweled zoo if she wanted to!

I think one of the most unusual and amusing because it's so unexpected — is the new grasshopper pin. It's life-size and modeled with meticulous detail. I like it best in plain textured gold but you may have it jeweled in rhinestones or emeralds if you like.

navy alligator golf shoes and a sweater," she said during a pre-exhibition interview. "A lot of the girls wear shorts and slacks in tournament play, but I never do."

As far as is known there is no actual restriction on golf attire nationwide. The same goes for the Atlanta links.

BE DECENT

"Just be decent" is the way George Simons, superintendent of the city parks department summed up the attire regulations on the city's seven municipal courses. "Most of the women play in skirts and shirts and other clothes naturally are determined by the weather conditions. I think shorts are worn more by the teen-agers."

When pressed further about "anything goes — on — the city-courses" Mr. Simons added this reminder:

"Well, you were just asking about the women players. We do have restrictions on what the men wear."

"What could possibly affect men's clothes?" he was asked. "Nothing much," said Mr. Simons. "Except they must keep their shirts on, no half-naked men are allowed to play!"

GOLF CLINICS

Miss Berg, who left Atlanta yesterday for some golf clinics in Tennessee, will return to the city late Saturday.

"As for clothes, I take along a complete outfit for each day of a tournament if I am traveling by car. Otherwise, I just take extra blouses."

She wears no ornaments except a St. Christopher charm on a silver chain around her neck.

Born in Minneapolis, this young golf wizard, ranked second to the famed Babe Zaharias, began her athletic career as a sand-lot quarterback for the Minneapolis 50th Street Tigers with Bud Wilkinson, the now famous coach of Oklahoma University. She turned professional and joined the women's advisory staff of Wilson Sporting Goods Co. in 1940.

WILL RETIRE

She said here this week that she will retire from LPGA (Ladies Professional Golf Assn.) tour as such, and will play only in selected events.

"Oh, I will continue to play and to hold clinics," she said. "What I mean by retiring is that I feel that I can no longer stand the continuous grind of weekly play over a long period of time. I will just choose my tournaments on the basis of how I feel."

And then in a more whimsical frame of mind, she said:

"You know what Mark Twain said about golf — it ruined a good long walk!"

Sixth and Seventh Grade Dance To Highlight Easter Vacation

Highlight of the Easter holidays for sixth and seventh graders from a group of north-side grammar schools is a formal dance to be held tomorrow evening in the Georgian ballroom at the Biltmore.

More than 200 boys and girls from Sarah Rawson Smith, McClatchey, Guy Webb, Jim Cherry, Westminster, Margaret Mitchell, R. L. Hope, Pace Academy, Lovett's, Fernbank, Garden Hills and Hammond Schools will gather for the dance, with many of the girls wearing their first long formal.

Serving as chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. S. Walter Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Dr. and Mrs. Rives Chalmers, Dr. and Mrs. John Warkentin, Mr. and Mrs. Wellborn P. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. David Armbruster, the H. B. Greens, the Porter Paynes and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Sisk.

MRS. GARDNER NOTTINGHAM leaves next week by plane from New York for her first trip to Europe. She will join her Woodward way neighbors, Col. and Mrs. John Esaias, in Rome and tour the Continent with them for the next three weeks.

Col. and Mrs. Esaias sailed Thursday from New York on the Cristoforo Colombo.

DONALD AND DENNIS O'BRIEN will arrive from Vanderbilt tomorrow to stay overnight with their parents, the Eugene O'Briens of Oakdale road. Immediately after church services and an Easter brunch on Sunday, the boys will head for Daytona Beach to join a house-party of their SAE Fraternity brothers for their spring holiday. The SAE housemother at Vanderbilt will chaperone the group, and an Atlanta girl included in the party will be Judy Shartzer.

COL. AND MRS. JAMES W. BURPITT returned Thursday to their winter home in Nokomis, Fla., after seeing their daughter, Grace, off to Paris by plane on Sunday from New York.

After eight years in Europe, Miss Burpitt returned to the States last year to work for a degree at the University of Georgia. She was graduated last week and was returning to Paris to resume her position as bilingual secretary for the judge advocate of the U.S. Air Force.

bama, left Wednesday with a group of her Chi Omega Sorority sisters to spend her Easter vacation at Panama City, Fla. She is the daughter of the Roger Moisters of 216 Rumson Rd., Northeast.

VISITORS EXPECTED for Easter weekend are Mr. and Mrs. Roger T. McManus and their daughter, Jan, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Robert T. Smallwood of New Albany, Miss., who will be guests of the Charles B. Neals Jr.

Mr. McManus will participate in the Masters next week in Augusta where Mrs. McManus and the Neals will join him on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal will honor their guests at a dinner party on Saturday evening, and on Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Neal Sr. will be hosts at dinner at the East Lake Country Club. Mrs. Robert H. Warnock has planned a luncheon for Mrs. McManus at the Luau on Tuesday, and that evening Mrs. Ralph L. Chappell will entertain at a coffee at her Sheldon drive home.

A LOVELY YOUNG Georgian, Margie Joiner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hartwell Joiner of Gainesville, will make her opera debut in New York on Saturday, April 4, when she takes the role of "Priestess" in Verdi's Aida.

During the current season, Miss Joiner has sung leading roles with the Community Opera Company of New York, one of her most popular roles having been "Gretel" in Humperdinck's Hansel and Gretel. An Atlanta, Enrico Leide, who presently conducts the Brooklyn Opera Company as well as New York's American Symphony, will conduct Aida.

Under the tutelage of Mr. and gather for an Easter egg hunt at 3 o'clock on Sunday at the East Lake Club. Easter baskets will be judged at 2:30 at the clubhouse, so all baskets must be in by that time.

Numerous prizes will be given during the hunt, and there will be prizes for the best-decorated baskets. In case of rain or wet grounds, the hunt will be postponed until Sunday, April 5.

A SIMILAR Easter egg hunt will be held for children of members of the Cherokee Club, starting promptly at 4 o'clock on Sunday. Children from 2 to 7 years of age, inclusive, are invited.

The small guests will be divided into two groups, with the 2, 3- and 4-year-olds hunting eggs together, and the 5-, 6- and 7-year-olds hunting in another area.

Celestine SibleyThe Lord Was Wise When He Gave Children To the Young

Whatever sage it was who so aptly remarked that the Lord knew what He was doing when He gave children to young people must have had children home for the Easter holidays.

The way I figure it this wise but probably weary philosopher had enjoyed a week or two of solitary living at least. He must have been just getting the hang of living in a moderate amount of order and quiet, of being able to take a bath when he chose, of putting down the newspaper and being able to find it ten minutes later, of being able to turn down his bed and climb into it without having to pick bobby pins out of his sheets or candy bars, movie magazines and crinoline petticoats out of his cover.

Then his children came home and he suddenly realized the dangers of allowing himself to get set in the ways of adult living.

Two of my children came home and I don't mind admitting I'm a little groggy this morning. Of course, young folks mean other young folks. Two teen-age girls could never think of spending a few days alone with their mother. The palpable loneliness of such a thing would be unbearable. So they bring friends and the minute they get inside the door they call up other friends and as soon as they can shuck off their traveling clothes and get into shorts or bluejeans they rush out to see people or to haul people in to see them.

And pretty soon the phone is ringing and the front door is slamming and the record player is going. The ham you frugally figure will last a couple of days goes up in sandwiches and every surface in the house overflows with apple cores and coke bottles and garments of one kind or another.

It's astonishing to me that in a few short weeks I learned how to put a meal together without a kitchen full of young helpers, all talking at once. I admit it was a colorless kind of business but I hardly burned or spilled anything at all. Last night I was so busy listening to the school trip to New York and what the math teacher REALLY said about that exam that I forgot to put the biscuits in the oven until supper was half eaten. And then I became so charmed with how a musical young house guest can beat out old things like "Stardust" and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" on the piano that I didn't notice until we were seated at the table that my youngest child, who is left-handed, had set the table left-handed.

Of course, I didn't have to wash the dishes. There were too many young hands for that but when I checked up later I did remove the apron from the dish towel rack and retrieved the Sunday glasses before they fell off the cup shelf. And I'm learning again how to negotiate a perilous course through darkened rooms where half emptied suitcases and trunks lurk like booby traps to break toes and bark shins.

If I were younger and more resilient I might even be able to stay up till 2:30 a.m. to see a friend off at the airport and then come home and sing melodiously to a ukelele accompaniment while running a bath, rolling up my hair and calling out to the girls in the next room. But I guess it's ridiculous to expect the Lord to give you teen-agers when you're THAT young.

Laurie Lynn Benson To Marry Mr. Morris

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred T. Benson of Geneva, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Laurie Lynn Benson, to Arthur Abner Morris Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Morris Sr. of Dothan, Ala.

The young couple plans to be married in the garden at the Geneva, Ala., home of the bride-elect's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Chapman, where her mother, the former Marie Chapman, was married to her father. The nuptial service is scheduled for Sunday, May 10.

Miss Benson received her undergraduate degree in dramatics from Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and took graduate work at the Pasadena Playhouse in California. She has been employed as a television hostess and director in Dothan.

The bride-elect is well known in Atlanta from frequent visits to her great-aunt, Mrs. Sanford B. Strout of 980 Burns Dr. Her fiancé is the nephew of Mrs. William T. Divers of 21 Peachtree Memorial Dr., N.W.

Mr. Morris received his B.S.

2,000 Narcissus at Show Prove It's Really Spring

Nine-year-old Steve Grubbs, attended his first Narcissus show Thursday. He looked over the mass of blooms (over two thousand) and said:

"That one there is the prettiest one. I'd like some of those if I ever had any. Those over there are real pretty too."

The judges thought the entry pretty too, for they awarded it a blue ribbon. It was a double yellow of the Inglescombe variety and was entered by Mrs. Peter Clarke of the Chatham Forest Garden Club.

Young Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Grubbs of 2579 Drew Valley Rd. passed up the "real pretty ones" but the judges didn't.

"Yellow Sun" entered by Mrs. M. D. Hodges of Milledgeville was chosen the finest horticultural specimen and won a silver prize as well as the Award of Merit given by the Garden Club of Georgia. Runner-up was "Daffodil Riotus" entered by Mrs. Warren Coleman.

FOUR ROUNDS

It took the judges four rounds of voting to choose "Yellow Sun." In competition were "Bonneville," "Kings Court," "Unsurpassable," "Beersheba" and "Silver Chimes."

"Bonneville" entered by J. C. Harris won the Cary Quinn prize for the best single entry introduced since 1948.

Mrs. Hodges also won the silver prize for the finest collection of three of a kind. In the nine of different varieties category, the prize went to Mrs. Alfred Sams of Macon. For her entry of twenty-five different varieties, Mrs. W. S. Simms of the Four Seasons Garden Club was the winner.

Mrs. Henry W. Cochran, a fourth grade teacher at the Morningside School won the silver sweepstakes prize and Mrs. Sams was runner-up.

The blooms were exhibited Thursday at the annual spring narcissus show at Rich's fifth floor auditorium and in the main floor lobby. The show, which will continue through Friday, is sponsored by the Atlanta Garden Center and its federated clubs. Mrs. C. R. Townsend is Center president.

ARRANGEMENT CLASSES
The arrangement classes—some placed on the store's main floor and the others in the fifth floor auditorium—were exotic as well as beautiful. Top winner was Mrs. H. P. Williamson of the Town and Country Garden Club, who captured a blue ribbon, the silver prize and the tri-color ribbon given by the Garden Club of Georgia. The amber glass container she used was unusually beautiful. The theme was "Naturally Contemporary."

In the "England's Countryside Charms" the entry of Mrs. J. B. Smith of the College Park Woman's Club was winner. Among her accessories were several miniature china sheep.

The Oriental feeling paid off with a first award for Mrs. L. L. McMullen of the St. Charles Garden Club, whose entry was offset with a Chinese figurine.

JAPANESE STYLE
A Japanese arrangement, and very colorful too, made by Mrs. R. W. Whitlock and Mrs. Frank McFall of the Brooklyn Garden Club was blue ribbon winner in the class titled "Moods of Moribana."

Mrs. Jesse Sasser of the Ashford Park Garden Club won the blue ribbon for her arrangement in the "Narcissus Reflects" class. She used an exquisite glass container.

Try New Approach To Diet

By IDA JEAN KAIN
If you bog down in diet attempts try a new approach—join a slimming club. If there isn't such a club in your neighborhood, invite a few likely candidates to join you in the venture and start reducing together. A newly formed group in Ohio is doing just that. The leader of the club writes:

"A group of us overweight ladies have just formed a diet club. We call ourselves 'Slimmer Sisters' and we meet each Monday night at the different homes. We decided to meet each week so that interest wouldn't lag. Also, knowing you have just one week between meetings helps to keep you on the diet course."

VITAL STATISTICS
"At our first meeting last week we recorded the vital statistics for each of us—weight, height, age and measurements. Also, each one's picture was taken. We plan to take pictures every four weeks."

"To keep the record straight we have this rule: Even if a member cannot stay for any one meeting, she must put in an appearance in order to weigh in."

"We have an incentive system. Dues are fifteen cents a week. Also, we pay one cent for each pound we lose. If no weight is lost, we pay two cents. And when weight is gained, heaven forbid, the penalty is two cents for each pound or fraction thereof. The money is to be used to buy an inexpensive gift each week to be presented to the winning loser of the week."

"We have 12 members and we all think the club plan will help us reduce because, when one loses, the rest will be challenged to try all the harder."

ADDS EXCITEMENT
Good! A slimming club adds a fillip of excitement to reducing. Even though the protective diet pattern and the exercise routine are practically the same, there is an important difference when you are slimming together.

The camaraderie takes away the resistance. Analyzed, reducing in a club provides the "climate" to boost the dieter's morale. Diet talk is not only accepted, but encouraged. All members understand the common problem and there is no slight hint of criticism. The anticipated joy of reporting lost weight acts as a spur to the dieters.

Loneliness Led Georgian To Glamour of Theater

By BETTY CARROLLTON

The most radiant ray in the Three Suns supper club act is a Georgia charmer who was led to the spotlight by loneliness.

Pretty Betty Brooks, a curvaceous redhead with a soft, warm voice and a dazzling smile, discovered that the big city can live up to a girl's dream of glamour, excitement—and romance. Betty found them all when she and her mother, Mrs. Bernice Brooks of Augusta, took their first trip to New York.

Shortly after they checked into their hotel, Betty met Artie Dunn of the famed Three Suns club. They had their first date that night, and have been married for 10 years.

"I actually started singing with the boys (Artie, Tony Lovello and John Romano) because of loneliness," Betty revealed here, where she is appearing as vocalist with the Three Suns at the Key Club. "Artie was away from home so much of the time, and I never had enough to do to keep me busy."

JOINED ACT

When she decided to join the act, Betty was warned by the boys that her initial appearance would probably be plagued by "the puckers"—the inability to smile during her song. "I really wasn't afraid," recalled the poised, slim redhead. "But just before I went on, I told Artie I had the puckers. He turned white as a sheet. I think that was the only time he's ever been nervous on an opening night."

Artie is well known for the arrangements he does to best project the talents of the group. But his eye for tasteful gowns, as well as his ear for good sounds, contribute to the act: Artie selects his wife's every outfit. "He won't let me go shopping without him," Mrs. Dunn revealed. "Artie always chooses my wardrobe—and he never goes wrong. He does a much better job of shopping for me than I do for him."

When Betty made her singing debut, she already had won fame as a model, and for her expert handling of television commercials on a national network. When a mutual friend introduced the Georgia peach to John Robert Powers, head of the famed modeling school, the model of feminine pulchritude swept away the last trace of Betty's shyness and awkwardness.

AWKWARD AND SHY

"I was always extremely awkward and shy when I was growing up," declared the Augusta beauty.

It took modeling school to rid her of that, and a voice school to soften her Southern drawl. After she became one of the Powers models, Betty tried her hand at television commercials on a national network, for a large cosmetic firm, and for a watch company. After her first commercial for the watch industry, Betty was told that because of her accent "we could sell the product in the South, but the North is another matter." So she enrolled in the voice division of the Theater Guild schools to erase the stamp of the South from her voice.

"For commercials," she pointed out, "the voice is supposed to have no accent that would be identifiable with any particular section of the country. But I hope I haven't lost all my Southern drawl (she hasn't) because such an accent has a charm all its own."

HOME EACH YEAR

Betty usually comes home to Georgia several times each year, and gets a kick out of her mother's new business—booking rock 'n' roll bands in the Augusta area. She's always glad to re-discover that things here haven't changed, and "the people are the nicest on earth."

She added that even her favorite local hairdresser, Mr. Paul of the Maison Paul, is willing to go out of his way to be helpful. Betty's intricate coiffure requires special attention, and Mr. Paul came to the hotel on his day off to make sure the style was "just right" for her appearance before home folks.

While Betty can't recall any particular opening night jitters as a singer, she was admittedly "excited and a little scared" before her performance here Thursday night: Mrs. Brooks came up from Augusta to hear her daughter sing for the first time. She soothed her daughter's ruffled nerves before the show, and beamed proudly when Betty introduced her to the audience.

Mrs. Brooks will accompany the Dunns to their Sarasota, Fla. engagement for a short visit with her daughter and son-in-law.

"I've always had every confidence in Betty," Mrs. Brooks said. "And she's fulfilled my every hope for her."

Miss Gail Stone Wed To Mr. Zimmerman

With Rabbi J. H. Holzman officiating at the B'Nai Israel Synagogue in Pensacola, Fla., Miss Gail Sue Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Stone of that city, became the bride of Jerry Myron Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Zimmerman of Atlanta.

Mr. Stone gave his daughter in marriage. Her satin and lace gown was designed with a cathedral train and embroidered in seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil fell from a heart-shaped headpiece, and she carried a white prayer book showered with white orchids, stephanotis and tuberoses.

Mrs. R. H. Roth of Orlando was matron of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Adir Aronson, the bridegroom's sister, Linda Herman of Miami, and Roslyn Miller.

Dr. Joseph Airov of Atlanta was best man for Mr. Zimmerman, and serving as his groomsmen were Mort Gilner, Norman Silver and Saul Weinberg, all of Atlanta.

A reception was held at the synagogue after the ceremony, and a dinner for the two families and the wedding party followed at Martine's.

Mr. Zimmerman and his bride departed for south Florida. Upon their return they will reside at 591 Seminole Ave., Atlanta.

Iraq, Nasser Aiding Reds, Says Hussein

WASHINGTON (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan said Thursday communism is gaining strength in the Arab world because of cooperation between the Soviet Union and "certain Arab governments."

Reds Pour Propaganda Into U.S.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Irving Fishman, a staff member of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, said Thursday nearly 10 million items of Communist propaganda entered the U.S. in 1958.

The committee held a hearing to investigate political propaganda mail being handled by American post offices.

In New Orleans alone, Fishman said, a two-week survey of the mails showed about 15,000 pieces of Communist propaganda passed through the city destined for Latin American countries.

MOSTLY FROM MEXICO
He said most of these were from Soviet sources in Mexico.

Fishman was the first witness called at Thursday's hearing.

Sen. Dodd of Connecticut asked Fishman if regulations governing the handling of such material could be tightened. The witness said an agreement requiring the labeling of sources could be more strongly enforced.

Fishman said the Justice Department has ruled that foreign agents receiving the material must label it political propaganda if he considers it as such.

CITES FOREIGN AGENTS
However, several hundred items of Communist booklets were shown to the committee, all sent through New Orleans and neither the envelopes or the enclosed material were labeled.

Fishman said the material from foreign sources destined for distribution in the United States is received by foreign agents in this country.

One of the biggest agents in America, Fishman said, is the Four Continent Bookshop in New York which receives "tons" of propaganda material.

He said that the bulk of the some 10 million items that came into this country last year were anti-United States propaganda.

Coats Held For Jury in Wife's Death

A DeKalb County Justice of the Peace Court Thursday bound Paul Coats over to the DeKalb County grand jury in connection with the slaying of his 33-year-old wife, Mrs. Francis Jane Coats.

Coats, who entered a plea of innocent, sat solemnly through the hearing before Justice John Vernon.

The attractive Mrs. Coats, of 4404 Jefferson Ave., Chamblee, was reported missing Nov. 15. Her body was found in a shallow grave in the embankment of the new perimeter highway in Doraville March 17.

Defense attorneys James Venable and Essley Burdine extensively cross examined state witnesses in the case and moved for a dismissal of charges against Coats. The motion was denied.

Witnesses for the state included Dr. Herman D. Jones, of the State Crime Laboratory, and Mrs. Coats' sister, Miss Evelyn Stowers, who identified the badly decomposed body as her sister's.

Dr. Jones testified that the woman's death was caused by strangulation.

The youthful anti-Communist monarch did not name any other Arab country in a speech to the National Press Club. But he apparently was referring to Iraq and Col. Nasser's United Arab Republic in talking about "new relations" and "the policy of collaboration" between some Arab countries and the Soviets.

SEES DANGER

He said this collaboration constituted the greatest danger to the Arab area and Jordan was the first country to realize it. This stand against communism, Hussein said, "created serious misunderstanding with some Arab sister states."

However, he said that some who "so violently attacked" Jordan's anti-Communist policy now appeared to be preaching the same policy. This was an obvious jab at U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser who recently has shown coolness toward the Soviets.

Hussein said the Arab League, established 14 years ago to further the cooperation of Arab people, has failed.

PRaises U.S.
The failure was due to "personal ambitions and the desire to exploit the machinery of the Arab League for selfish and personal interests by some state members," he declared. The Arab League has its headquarters in Cairo and is generally considered a tool of the U.A.R.

The King praised the United States which "did not hesitate to help Jordan."

Hussein came here Monday on the start of a month's tour of the country.

Ike Golfs First Time In 4 Months

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—President Eisenhower began a long Easter weekend here Thursday by playing his first round of golf in four months.

The Chief Executive teed off at the Gettysburg Country Club about 90 minutes after arriving at his nearby farm by helicopter at 1:02 p.m. e.s.t. He planned to remain here working on speeches and visiting with members of the family during the week end.

The President played with retired Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins, his Gettysburg neighbor and farming associate.

The President will return to Washington Monday.

Athletics Need More Major League Athletes

(This is the 12th in a series on major league teams training in Florida.)

WEST PALM BEACH—Harry Craft, the affable gentleman who has the arduous task of managing the Kansas City A's, is a realist. Even in the spring when all managers are optimistic, he isn't dreaming of a pennant.

In keeping with the managerial code, however, he does predict that the A's will be "an improved" team. And he has designs on a first-division berth, a distinction the A's haven't enjoyed since coming in fourth in Philadelphia way back yonder in 1952.

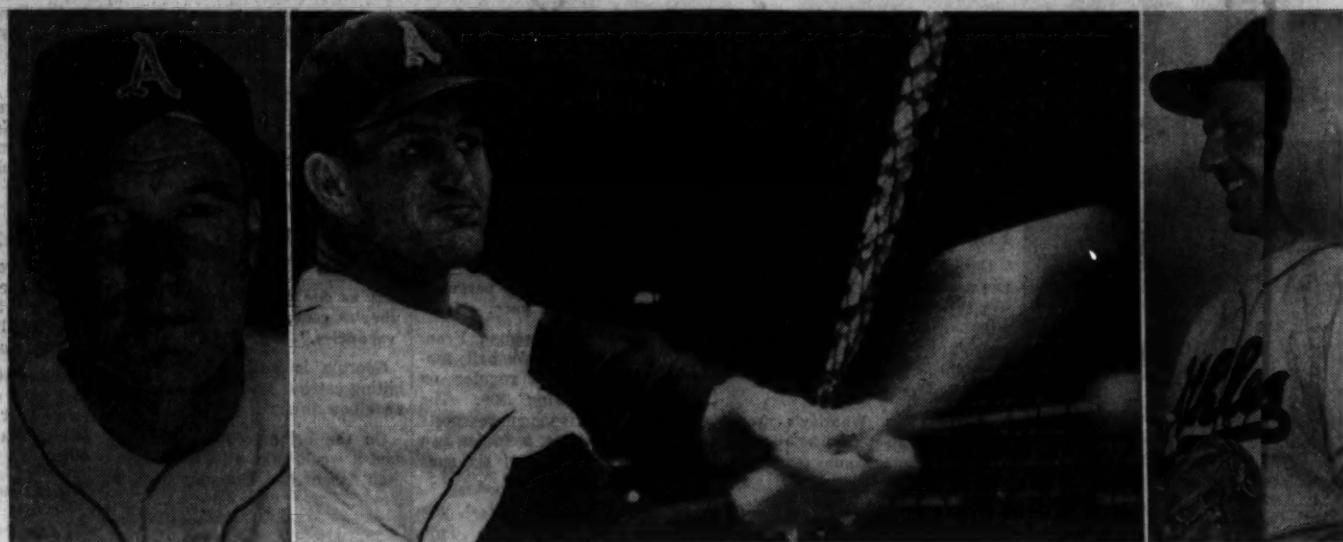

Talk of the A's landing in the upper bracket isn't as far-fetched as it might sound. Though last year's crew limped across the finish line 19 games behind their rich New York relatives, they were only 4½ lengths off the first-division pace.

Bob Cerv, one of those rare citizens who says it's great to be an ex-Yankee, is the man they like to talk about around Kansas City headquarters.

The 32-year-old outfielder enjoyed his finest season last year despite a broken jaw and broken toe. He walloped 38 homers, drove in 104 runs and batted .305. That's a good year anywhere, a stupendous, super colossal campaign with the Athletics.

Cerv was saying the other day that it gave him tremendous satisfaction to show some people in New York that they guessed wrong about him. He then applauded the A's as fine folks to work for.

"It's a pleasure to play with this club," he said.

BRIGHTENING AN OTHERWISE DIM KANSAS CITY PICTURE IS A'S POWER-SERVING OUTFIELDER ERV
Manager Harry Craft (L) Has High Hopes Some Changes Will Be Made In His Favor, and Ex-Catcher Hal Smith (R) Has Eye on Wing

"You don't have to be afraid you'll be benched because you happen to go 0-for-4."

And that's for sure. Cerv, a rookie named Lou Klimchok, who swung a .389 club at Pocatello, and Zeke Bella, who rapped .539 at Denver, are the only players on the entire spring roster who cracked the .300 barrier last year.

—Outfield Full of First Basemen

During exhibition outings, the A's have been reproducing the "Who's on First" routine. Harry Simpson, the Dalton, Ga., resident, Preston Ward, Dick Williams and Bob Martyn have all had a fling. All four first basemen can also play the outfield.

Hector Lopez, who swatted 17 homers and batted

Jesse OUTLAR

★ Sports Editor ★

In 73 runs in '58, appears to be the second baseman. And Joe DeMaestri, the good-field, no-hit man, is back for an encore at short. Hal Sansplanted catcher who also plays first, is bird base.

Craft is more than satisfied with the hot corner. In fact, he recently made the statement that "Smith is as good a sennan as there is in the American League."

Much-traveled Wayne Terwillincheck, a 19-year-old youngster with gredal, Mike Baxes and Milt Graff are seeking in the infield. And there's much room fvement in the infield, a porous spot which he A's bid for an upper berth last season.

The outfield seems to be the hot on the club. In addition to the clubbing C Tuttle and Roger Maris are stamped regulars. Bella, Whitey Herzog and the first base quartet can also play the outfield.

Harry Chiti hit .268 in 103 games last season. House poked a docile .252 in 76 games.

—The Pitching Picture Is Brighter

Pitching has been better than expected in Grapefruit outings, which doesn't necessarily mean it has been good. Generous hurlers compiled an ERA of 4.15 last season, a ghastly figure only Washington managed to surpass.

Russ Meyer and Art Houtteman, a couple of veterans supposedly washed up, are essaying comebacks with the A's and surprisingly, they've been effective in spring trials.

There are young delegates such as George Brunet, the former Little Rock ace; Ken Johnson, Howard Reed and Bob Davis eager to bolster the shaky pitching corps. Brunet, who developed a slider during a mediocre 9-13 season at Little Rock and Buffalo, seems to be an improved pitcher.

However, the front-line looks about the same: Ralph Terry (11-13), Bob Grim (7-7), Jack Urban (8-11), Ned Garver (12-11) and Ray Herbert (8-8). Tom Gorman (4-4), Bud Daley (3-2), Dick Tomanek (7-8) and Walt Craddock (0-3) form the fireman brigade.

Craft has set his sights on a break-even season of 77 victories. A year ago he nailed 70 on his hope chest, and the A's registered 73 triumphs.

Like everyone else, Craft says the Yankees are the team to beat. He thinks Detroit and Cleveland are apt to emerge as the most improved teams, and he figures Chicago will be tough.

If some of the youngsters come through and Meyer and Houtteman continue progress along the comeback trail, Kansas City might soar all the way to sixth. That is, of course, if they steer clear of any further deals with the Yankees.

Haas Hurt As Braves Lose, 6-3

Fractures Ankle In St. Louis Win

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves dropped a 6-3 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday and in the process lost the services of outfielder Ed Haas for an indefinite period.

Haas fractured an ankle as he crashed into the right field fence.

Haas Injury Blow to Atlanta

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—The Atlanta Crackers will be one good outfielder poorer this season because of an accident that happened in Bradenton, Fla., Thursday.

Eddie Haas, a prize rookie of the Milwaukee Braves, stepped into a drain hole during a spring training drill and suffered a compound ankle fracture.

Haas, regarded as the best looking Brave-owned player competing in the many winter leagues, hit .326 for Wichita last season. He also hit .357 (5 for 14) in nine games for Milwaukee.

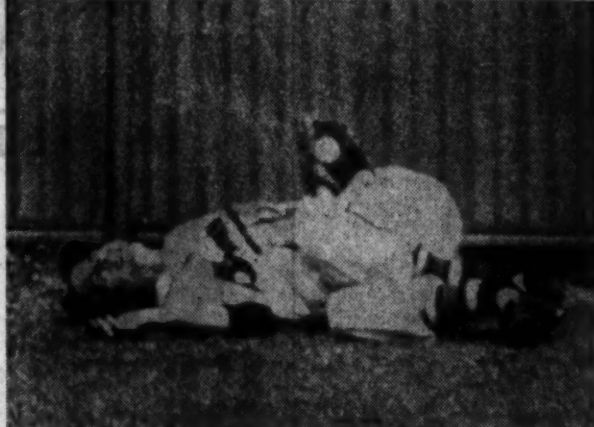

He wasn't expected to stick with the parent Braves but skipper Ben Geraghty of Class AAA Louisville was counting upon Haas as one of his outfield mainstays.

The serious injury means that Geraghty must keep one more outfielder than he had counted upon, making one less available to the Crackers when cut-down time comes.—ROBERTS

Louisville Prolong Atlanta Drought, 2

Colonels Wrap It Up Early

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. The Atlanta-Louisville baseball exhibition story continued to sound like a broken record Thursday.

Good pitch, good field, no hit. Crackers lose, 2-0.

Howie Bedell's first-inning lead-off double followed by Rick Herrscher's single, and Ray Shearer's leadoff home run in the third accounted for the run-making.

Right-hander Ed Bannach and southpaw Harold DeMars, both rookies, let the Crackers down with three doubles and two singles.

That mound mastery marked the eighth time in 10 games that winless Atlanta has been limited to either five or six hits, the third time they have been zeroed by a 2-0 count.

But once again, Cracker pilot Buddy Bates found something for which to be thankful despite defeat. This time his elation came over the way Wendell Doss climbed out of a pitching hole he dug himself.

The sidwheeling sinker-ball expert, regarded by Bates as a strong contender to lead his bullpen corps, pitched the final four innings after Jack Hannah was victimized for the two runs.

Doss limited Ben Geraghty's Colonels to three singles and snuffed out the last nine batters in succession.

BEANBALL CRY ALMO STARTS INDIAN WAI

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A full-fledged rhubarb stopped of fisticuffs Thursday as the San Francisco Giants defeat land 7-5 in a Cactus League exhibition.

The ninth-inning fracas, which completely overshadowed more homers by the Giants' slugging Andre Rogers, started with San Francisco's Stu Miller hit Indian first baseman Power on his head.

Power, who wasn't wearing a protective helmet, was conscious for a minute. Power recovered and walked to filing insults at Miller. Then Cleveland manager Joe Gald

KC Paper Says Yanks Seeking Dick Tomanek,

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The New York Yankees are trying to cook up a deal for Dick Tomanek, relief pitcher for the Athletics, the Kansas City Star reported Thursday.

In a dispatch from the West Palm Beach training site, the Star said owner Arnold Johnson and Parke Carroll, general manager of the A's, met yesterday with George Weiss, the

The story says the Yanks are known to covet Tomanek, a hard-throwing left-hander.

Athletics Need More Major League Athletes

(This is the 12th in a series on major league teams training in Florida.)

WEST PALM BEACH—Harry Craft, the affable gentleman who has the arduous task of managing the Kansas City A's, is a realist. Even in the spring when all managers are optimistic, he isn't dreaming of a pennant.

In keeping with the managerial code, however, he does predict that the A's will be "an improved" team. And he has designs on a first-division berth, a distinction the A's haven't enjoyed since coming in fourth in Philadelphia way back yonder in 1952.

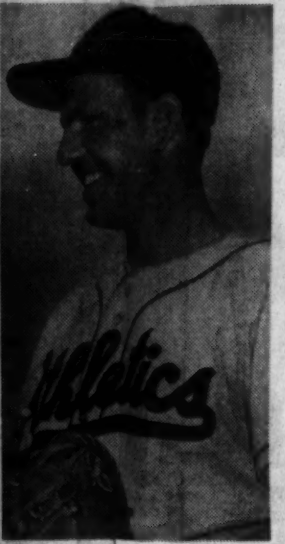

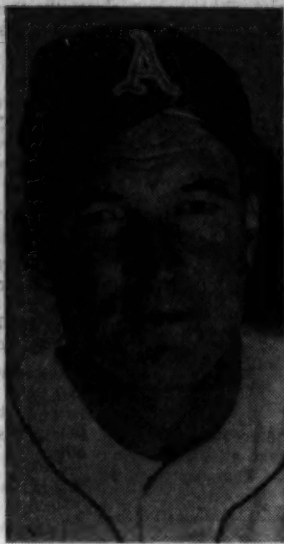

Talk of the A's landing in the upper bracket isn't as far-fetched as it might sound. Though last year's crew limped across the finish line 19 games behind their rich New York relatives, they were only 4½ lengths off the first-division pace.

Bob Cerv, one of those rare citizens who says it's great to be an ex-Yankee, is the man they like to talk about around Kansas City headquarters.

The 32-year-old outfielder enjoyed his finest season last year despite a broken jaw and broken toe. He walloped 38 homers, drove in 104 runs and batted .305. That's a good year anywhere, a stupendous, super colossal campaign with the Athletics.

Cerv was saying the other day that it gave him tremendous satisfaction to show some people in New York that they guessed wrong about him. He then applauded the A's as fine folks to work for.

"It's a pleasure to play with this club," he said.

BRIGHTENING AN OTHERWISE DIM KANSAS CITY PICTURE IS A'S POWER-SERVING OUTFIELDER BOB CERV

Manager Harry Craft (L) Has High Hopes Some Changes Will Be Made In His Favor, and Ex-Catcher Hal Smith (R) Has Eye on Cerv's String

"You don't have to be afraid you'll be benched because you happen to go 0-for-4."

And that's for sure. Cerv, a rookie named Lou Klimchuck, who swung a .389 club at Peacelino, and Zeke Bella, who rapped .339 at Denver, are the only players on the entire spring roster who cracked the .300 barrier last year.

—Outfield Full of First Basemen

During exhibition outings, the A's have been reproducing the "Who's on First" routine. Harry Simpson, the Dalton, Ga., resident, Preston Ward, Dick Williams and Bob Martyn have all had a fling. All four first basemen can also play the outfield.

Hector Lopez, who swatted 17 homers and batted

Jesse OUTLAR

★ Sports Editor ★

In 73 runs in '58, appears to be the second baseman, and Joe DeMaestri, the good-field, no-hit man, is back for an encore at short. Hal Smith, a transplant-ed catcher who also plays first, is tending third base.

Craft is more than satisfied with Smith at the hot corner. In fact, he recently made the startling statement that "Smith is as good a third baseman as there is in the American League."

Much-traveled Wayne Terwilliger, Klimchuck, a 19-year-old youngster with great potential, Mike Baxes and Milt Graff are seeking employment in the infield. And there's much room for improvement in the infield, a porous spot which doomed the A's bid for an upper berth last season.

The outfield seems to be the bright spot on the club. In addition to the clubbing Cerv, Bill Tuttle and Roger Maris are stamped regulars. Bella, Whitey Herzog and the first base quartet can also play the outfield.

Harry Chiti and Frank House are the men behind the mask. Chiti hit .268 in 103 games last season, House poked a docile .252 in 76 games.

—The Pitching Picture Is Brighter

Pitching has been better than expected in Grapefruit outings, which doesn't necessarily mean it has been good. Generous hurlers compiled an ERA of 4.15 last season, a ghastly figure only Washington managed to surpass.

Russ Meyer and Art Houtteman, a couple of veterans supposedly washed up, are essaying comebacks with the A's and surprisingly, they've been effective in spring trials.

There are young delegates such as George Brunet, the former Little Rock ace; Ken Johnson, Howard Reed and Bob Davis eager to bolster the shaky pitching corps. Brunet, who developed a slider during a mediocre 9-13 season at Little Rock and Buffalo, seems to be an improved pitcher.

However, the front-line looks about the same: Ralph Terry (11-13), Bob Grim (7-7), Jack Urban (6-11), Ned Garver (12-11) and Ray Herbert (8-8). Tom Gorman (4-4), Bud Daley (3-2), Dick Tomanek (7-8) and Walt Craddock (0-3) form the fireman brigade.

Craft has set his sights on a break-even season of 77 victories. A year ago he nailed 70 on his hope chest, and the A's registered 73 triumphs.

Like everyone else, Craft says the Yankees are the team to beat. He thinks Detroit and Cleveland are apt to emerge as the most improved teams, and he figures Chicago will be tough.

If some of the youngsters come through and Meyer and Houtteman continue progress along the comeback trail, Kansas City might soar all the way to sixth. That is, of course, if they steer clear of any further deals with the Yankees.

Fractures Ankle In St. Louis Win

BRADENTON, Fla. — The Milwaukee Braves dropped a 6-3 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday and in the process lost the services of outfielder Ed Haas for an indefinite period.

Haas Injury Blow to Atlanta

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—The Atlanta Crackers will be one good outfielder poorer this season because of an accident that happened in Bradenton, Fla., Thursday.

Eddie Haas, a prize rookie of the Milwaukee Braves, stepped into a drain hole during a spring training drill and suffered a compound ankle fracture.

Haas, regarded as the best looking Brave-owned player competing in the many winter leagues, hit .326 for Wichita last season. He also hit .357 (5 for 14) in nine games for Milwaukee.

He wasn't expected to stick with the parent Braves but skipper Ben Geraghty of Class AAA Louisville was counting upon Haas as one of his outfield mainstays.

The serious injury means that Geraghty must keep one more outfielder than he had counted upon, making one less available to the Crackers when cut-down time comes.—ROBERTS

Louisville Prolongs Atlanta Drought, 2-0

Colonels Wrap It Up Early

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Constitution Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. The Atlanta-Louisville baseball exhibition story continued to sound like a broken record Thursday.

Good pitch, good field, no hit. Crackers lose, 2-0.

Howie Bedell's first-inning lead-off double followed by Rick Herscher's single, and Ray Shearer's leadoff home run in the third accounted for the run-making.

Right-hander Ed Banach and southpaw Harold DeMars, both rookies, let the Crackers down with three doubles and two singles.

That mound mastery marked the eighth time in 10 games that winless Atlanta has been limited to either five or six hits, the third time they have been zeroed by a 2-0 count.

But once again, Cracker pilot Buddy Bates found something for which to be thankful despite defeat. This time his elation came over the way Wendell Doss climbed out of a pitching hole he dug himself.

The sidwheeling sinker-ball expert, regarded by Bates as a strong contender to lead his bullpen corps, pitched the final four innings after Jack Hannah was victimized for the two runs.

Doss limited Ben Geraghty's Colonels to three singles and snuffed out the last nine batters in succession.

WENDELL DOSS

Strong in Relief

But what put a grin on Bates' usually-somber countenance was the clutch-perfect job the West Virginian did in the seventh frame while in a danger-fraught situation.

Bedell opened the round with a hump-backed single to right. Then Herscher's ground shot bounced over third baseman Bill Rittman's head for a single. Bedell beat the throw-in to third, and Herscher took second.

That's when Doss, facing the meat of the Louisville lineup, showed his mettle and bailed out without a run scored against him. He coaxed southpaw-hitting Dave

BEANBALL CRY ALMOST STARTS INDIAN WAR

PHOENIX, Ariz. —A full-fledged rhubarb stopped just short of fisticuffs Thursday as the San Francisco Giants defeated Cleveland 7-5 in a Cactus League exhibition.

The ninth-inning fracas, which completely overshadowed two more homers by the Giants' slugging Andre Rogers, started when a pitch by San Francisco's Stu Miller hit Indian first baseman Vic Power on his head.

Power, who wasn't wearing a protective helmet, was unconscious for a minute. Power recovered and walked to first, shouting insults at Miller. Then Cleveland manager Joe Gordon and

KC Paper Says Yanks Seeking Dick Tomanek,

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The New York Yankees are trying to cook up a deal for Dick Tomanek, relief pitcher for the Athletics, the Kansas City Star reported Thursday.

In a dispatch from the West Palm Beach training site, the Star said owner Arnold Johnson and Parke Carroll, general manager of the A's, met yesterday with George Weiss, the Yanks' general manager and their field general, Casey Stengel.

Mantle's Tape Tap Trims Pirates, 7-2

Yank Hurler Turley Excels, But Stuart Socks Homer

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—George Witt, Pittsburgh right-hander, hurled hitless ball against the New York Yankees for 5 2/3 innings Thursday, then was stunned by a Mickey Mantle tape-measure homer and the Pirates went down to a 7-2 defeat.

Mantle's 430-foot drive over the center-field fence touched off a three-run sixth inning. The Bombers took advantage of the 25-year-old pitcher's wildness in the following inning and picked up three more runs. In all, Witt permitted five hits but gave 10 walks and threw two wild pitches.

A crowd of 4,679 saw Bob Turley in his best performance of the spring. The World Series ace gave up only three hits and a run in seven innings. Dick Stuart belted a 400-foot homer over the left-field wall in the first. Ed Dick, a rookie left-hander, finished up and allowed a run in the ninth.

Mantle, who had been slumping with a .205 average, reached base five straight times with three walks and a single in addition to his home run, which was his second.

Bulldogs, Tigers Hunt Hitters In Today's League Lid-Lifter

Bob Payne Question Mark; Auburn's Rex Cage Absentee

By MICKEY LOGUE

The short Southeastern Conference baseball race, like a 100-yard dash, can be lost at the start. Thus Georgia and Auburn must fight for a fast getaway in Friday's league opener for both teams.

Unless batting figures are the worst sort of liars, however, they won't be slugging it out on Ag Hill. Auburn isn't hitting the weight of its lightest player, and Georgia is in no position to do much talking at the plate.

Coach Jim Whitley's host Bulldogs enter the 3:30 p.m. showdown with a puny team batting pulse of .183. And the so-far fearless Tigers are 32 percent age points off that pace.

Georgia second-baseman Francis Tarkenton, the football magician, is the only regular on either side stroking .300. The talented Athens sophomore sports a neat .353 average, including two doubles, one triple and six runs batted in.

Shortstop Ben Catchings' .294 represents Auburn's top individual rate. He, too, is a rookie.

"I'd settle for any kind of hit," Auburn's Earline Russell said. "It doesn't have to be solid wood. A bunt, slow roller, anything."

"We've just been averaging about six hits a game," Whitley encouraged. "Of course, tomorrow's hitting will depend a lot on the pitching."

It looks like a little stickwork will go a long way in this series.

Georgia carries a 2-2 exhibition record against the defending SEC champions, who are 0-4-4. Stripped by graduation and professional contracts, the Tigers have found rain plentiful, but runs near the drought stage.

Georgia is minus the conference batting champion, catcher R. E. Gladdin, who hit better than .400. This leaves a lot of slack to be taken up by somebody. Maybe Tarkenton's man.

The Bulldogs' most devastating victory weapon to date—left-hander Bob Payne—has a 50-50 chance of starting the first game against Auburn. An ailing flipper prevented his practicing Thursday, and Whitley said pregame warmups would determine whether Payne or right-hander Tom Thornhill draws the assignment.

Auburn's new baseball boss plans to pitch right-hander Alan Koch Friday and lefty Lloyd Nix Saturday. Nix, of course, plays first base when not on the mound. Koch was instrumental in Auburn's drive to the 1958 flag, firing the championship bullets in the finale with Alabama.

He hasn't been getting the same stick support this year, though.

Compounding Russell's miseries, Rex Frederick (.182) will join

Vanderbilt's Jim Henry and Mississippi State's Bailey Howell in the South lineup against the North in this weekend's North-South All-Star basketball game at Raleigh, North Carolina.

Jackie Burkett (.154), another alleged slugger, remains sidelined by a shoulder injury.

"We had hoped to build our outfield around Frederick and Burkett," Russell said. "That left us one position to fill. Now they're gone, and we have three vacancies."

Georgia is still without hard-hitting catcher Phil Ashe, who has an elbow injury.

On the brighter side, Whitley said it would take a lot more rain than Athens had Thursday to rain it out.

Kaiser Deflates Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The University of Miami defeated Yale, 6-2, then lost to Georgia Tech, 15-3, in a doubleheader Thursday.

Roger Kaiser led the Tech bat attack in the nightcap with four singles in his last four trips to the plate and sent five runs across.

Lefty Ed Chambliss had only one serious inning, but Meyer saved the day in that one with his sensational stab.

Chambliss scattered seven hits, walked five and struck out 11 batters. The game was halted after eight innings because of the two and a half hour time limit.

Baumer, Holder Join Crax

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—The left side of an infield reported to manager Buddy Bates Thursday as Jack Baumer and equally reluctant George Holder checked into the Crackers' spring training camp almost two weeks late.

Baumer, still unsigned, drove in from his California home after finally agreeing to terms with President Earl Mann. Holder, who retired, then "unretired," arrived from Virginia.

Both will take their first workouts Friday and, perhaps, play in the morning squad game.

The 30-year-old Baumer, who came to the Crackers in a winter swap for Sammy Meeks, may play third base as he did at Mobile for two seasons.

But he started as a catcher in 1947 and since then has performed at all infield and outfield posts at one time or another.

Bates plans to test the veteran at several spots and use him wherever he fits in best.

Baumer lashed 41 home runs for the Bears in two seasons, and his slugging potential is well-earned in a camp where long-ball hitters are non-existent.

Holder, very fast and with a powerful throwing arm, slumped to .255 with the bat at Jacksonville last year but lashed .331 and .290 at Eau Claire and Evansville before that.

He will be given a thorough test at shortstop, the position he likes best.—ROBERTS

Lawrence Handcuffs Bums, 2-1

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Brooks Lawrence gave up seven scattered hits keeping Los Angeles Dodgers under tight control Thursday while his Cincinnati Reds' teammates eked out a 2-1 exhibition victory.

Lawrence, second Reds' hurler in as many days to go the route, had a little trouble in the third inning when Wally Moon tripled and scored when shortstop Roy McMillan booted a tricky bouncer.

VOL FULLBACK TAKEOFF STARTS ON THE SAWDUST TRAIL

By MICKEY LOGUE

The "moment of truth" often arrives for a Southeastern Conference defensive line when a Tennessee fullback goes airborne hunting short first down or touchdown yardage.

The Tommy Bronsons, Tom Tracys and Andy Kozars, to name a few of more recent vintage, go up fast and come down hard.

Enemy football forces, from time to time, or play to play, must wonder what makes 'em hit so sharply.

Ironically, their bullish charge has its origin partially in the more gentlemanly art of track and field. Assistant coaches George Cagelo and Bobby Proctor keep the Vol power boys after school for diving lessons in the sawdust pit used by the pole vaulters.

The record clearly shows that Tennessee's fullbacks, tailbacks, guards, tackles, etc. were not up to Bowden Wyatt par last season. But look for improvement in 1959.

After this week's opening spring session, the conservative Wyatt expressed keen pleasure, saying, "I'll take 19 more of those."

HIS TIME OF YEAR—Frank Destino, halfback for the 1956-57 South Carolina football teams, believes he should be in good form playing for the alumni against the Gamecock varsity in the April 11 spring game. "I always was at my best in the spring," Destino quips.

Halfbacks King Dixon and Alex Hawkins and center Dwight Keith Jr., of Atlanta will be player-coaches for the alumni against Warren Giese's varsity. . . . And speaking of Bronson, he and former Tennessee all-America guard Bill Johnson are second lieutenants at Fort Benning. . . . Bob Riser, Vol basketball guard, has been summoned to golf duty. When five prospects were ruled ineligible, Coach Lloyd Fore's linksmen were left short-handed for weekend matches with Purdue. . . . North Carolina's Frank McGuire told a Kentucky basketball audience Adolph Rupp is "the most gracious loser I have met. . . . When I was at St. John's," he continued, "and we beat Kentucky in the NCAA tournament after Kentucky had beaten us by 41 points at Lexington, Rupp congratulated me three times." Rupp says the Wildcats' fabulous hardwood success "can be summed up in two words—discipline and tradition. These are the heart and soul of our basketball program." . . . Center Don Mills and forward Billy Ray Lickert, SEC sophomore of the year, are the Cats' 1959-60 co-captains. . . . Bill Albans, ex-Tar Heel track whiz, is modeling for his daily bread. . . . Athletic director Eddie Cameron says 35 to 40 coaches have applied for Duke's head basketball post, vacated when Hal Bradley went to Texas. N.C. State assistant Vic Bubas is reported in the running.

Cairo sophomore Richard Crane will be trying to improve on Auburn's longest shot put at the Florida Relays. Crane established the school mark at 53-6 1/2 in Montgomery's Coliseum Relays. Georgia Tech's Fred Berman set the Florida Re-

Atlanta Buck Hiles, sophomore freestyle-butler ace, will wear FSU colors in the 38th annual NCAA swimming championships at Ithaca, N.Y. . . . John Foster defeated Lindsey Hopkins, 6-0, 6-2, for Georgia's No. 1 tennis position. . . . Tech's Ned Neely found sweet revenge in his 6-3, 6-1 victory over Mexico City champ Jose Ochoa. Ochoa won last year. . . . John N. Ware, Rome, makes this contribution to Catfish Smithiana: "In his sophomore year against Alabama, an Alabama back came at his end preceded by three men. Smith jumped over their heads and nearly decapitated the ball-carrier. Lining up after the play, Smith's opposite growled at him: 'We're going to get you for that.' Catfish straightened up, looked back at the scoreboard, then took his position, saying, 'Well, you've got two years and 25 minutes. You can start any time you feel like it.'"

Masters Preview To Offer Variety

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Just about the best of three golf divisions . . . and a strong man to boot.

That's the versatile treat in store for holders of tickets to the Masters Preview, Atlanta's Sunday brush with the big timers of the links at North Fulton Park.

Men professionals Arnold Palmer and George Bayer, lady professional Patty Berg and amateur Tommy Aaron . . . that's the cast for the all-star show, from which Multiple Sclerosis victims will benefit.

Actually the 18-hole match largely will be a test of perfection vs. power. Palmer and Berg will be matched against Bayer, golf's hardest hitter, and Aaron, who may be the hardest swinging amateur.

Here's a capsule glance at the participants:

Palmer—Golf's leading 1958 money-winner . . . winner of more tournaments (15) than any other professional since he started playing for pay five years ago . . . no slouch in the power department, either, despite only 180 pounds . . . labeled by many a candidate for super-starrism of Jones-Hagan-Hogan-Snead caliber . . . already has won more than $100,000.

Berg—Miss Golf, and still going strong despite 41 years of age . . . Has won more than $120,000 . . . owns record 81 tournament victories . . . holds women's world record of 64 for 18 holes . . . all-time women's money winner . . . Woman Athlete of Year in 1933-43-55 . . . won Vase trophy three times . . . won Titleholders tourney 7 of 16 times . . . only female member of Minnesota Hall of Fame . . . Her ambition: "to play golf as long as I live or can walk, but I hope to play competitive golf until I am 50."

Bayer—Stands 6-5, weighs 240 . . . former University of Washington and Washington Redskins tackle . . . averages 290 yards off tee, has gone over 500 mark . . . powerful smacks necessitate changing balls every three holes . . . won $13,000 last year.

Aaron—The Gainesville, Ga., native now a senior and team captain at University of Florida . . . highest pinnacle was reached last year when he finished second in National Amateur . . . has won Southeastern Conference championship past two years, along with numerous other amateur titles . . . an all-state former high school quarterback who packs 198 pounds, 6 feet high . . . consistently tees off over 300 yards, averages better than 250 yards . . . probably will turn professional—barring Army service—upon graduation in June from Florida.

Bowling Clinic

BY BILLY SIXTY

Don't Hurry From Top

It's when the pressure is on, after possibly 11 strikes, or needing a spare to win a league game, that even the stars make the mistake of rushing the ball into the downsizing instead of letting it drop straight down of its own weight—into the groove.

One of the difficult things in teaching is to get beginners to swing the ball, not throw it. Speed is determined by the length of the arc, not by any sudden thrust of the ball. The tendency, with the pressure on, is to tighten up completely. That means the push-away is choked, or shortened; the arc is reduced, and inevitably the downsizing is forced or hurried. The ball then will either be dropped too soon, or because the shoulder is turned at release, the ball drives on the head pin.

Assuming that you're in excellent position at the top of your swing, as shown in the sketch, perfectly balanced as the third step is being completed, concentrate on dropping the ball straight downward. Only then will the arm remain straight all the way to ball release.

While it appears in the sketch that the swing must be hurried if the ball is to catch up with footwork and pass the sliding left leg at the foul line, actually the straight-down drop of the ball from the top will create enough momentum to get the ball through in good time.

SIX FORMER CHAMPS TAKE AUGUSTA WHIRL

Special to The Constitution

AUGUSTA—Arrival Thursday of six former champions unofficially broke the tape on the 1959 Masters Tournament which officially begins April 2 at Augusta National.

Arnold Palmer (1958), Jack Burke Jr. (1956), Byron Nelson (1937-42), Jimmy Demaret (1940-47-50), Doug Ford (1957) and Horton Smith (1934-36) were the early birds along with Australian Bruce Crampton, Al Mengert, Jack Fleck and amateurs Jack Nicklaus and Deane Beman.

Palmer, who'll be in Atlanta Sunday for the Masters Preview at North Fulton Park, turned in a nine-hole practice card of 35. Burke and Nelson were the only other scorekeepers, posting a 34 and 37 respectively on the front nine.

Most of the professionals packed their bags after the practice fire and departed for the Wilmington (N.C.) Open, which begins Friday.

Mrs. Ladewig Loses, Wins

Mrs. Marion Ladewig finished in Atlanta exhibition tour Thursday by losing to Bowl-O-Matic's Frank Hawkins in total pins, 520-506, and defeating Purky Malaska by total pinfalls, 537-511.

Mrs. Malaska, however, shot the best game of the day, notching a 222. The game included six strikes, three coming in succession in the first three frames.

Mrs. Ladewig, in the morning session against Hawkins put together games of 179, 145, and 182 for a 506. Hawkins had 174, 182 and 164 for a 520 total pin fall.

Against Mrs. Malaska, Ladewig had games of 168, 193 and 176 for a total of 537. Mrs. Malaska had 168, 134 and her 222. Ladewig had the most strikes, 12; Malaska had eight.

Land Tops Mark

Henry Land fired a 289 game Thursday night, to establish a new Atlanta Tenpin Bowling Assn. mark.

The 269 game was Land's first in his series. He put together games of 177 and 159 for a highly credible 625.

Five Hits, 0 Runs — Same Crax Story

Roberts to pop-up, got Shearer on a grounder to first base and whiffed left-handed hitting Bill Robertson.

Doss had shown poise even before that. Catcher Mike Roark greeted him with a single in the sixth and went to second on a wild pitch. But Doss knuckled down and easily disposed of Bob Jacobs, Juan Guzman and DeMars.

"If we use Doss in relief, he'll be going into games in tough spots, and the way he got himself out of the hole was great to see," beamed Bates later in the clubhouse.

"Ordinarily I would have called for a walk to load the bases and set up a double play when he had those runners on second and third. But I wanted to see how well he'd do. Man, I found out, and what I found out was good."

Bates has been able to find little fault with Doss' performances in spring training. The 23-year-old lad, pitching professionally six seasons, has hurled nine relief innings in three outings against Louisville and Salt Lake City. He allowed only four safeties, no runs, walked just two and struck out three.

The six-foot 170-pounder didn't arrive here billed as a "Can't Miss" guy. He had a poorish 8-14 record for Topeka in the Western League last season. But in other seasons at Lawton, Okla., Quebec, Evansville and Topeka he posted glittering charts of 24-12, 16-8, 12-5 and 10-8.

The sting of defeat may have been less for Bates because of sparkling chores by DeMars and Banach. Slabmen who quite possibly could be made available to Atlanta eventually.

The fast ball of DeMars, 11-12 at Topeka, really had zip as he zeroed the Crackers on two blows and whiffed five in the last five frames. Banach gave up three socks and didn't walk a batter in the opening four cantos.

Hannah was touched for 7 of Louisville's 10 hits, including two each by Bedell, Herrscher and Roark. But the big righthander fanned six Colonels.

No Cracker solved Banach and DeMars for two hits, but John DeMerit, Bob Knoop and Hawk Taylor belted doubles. Knoop's was a 415-footer to center.

The Crackers, now 0-8-2, are certain to win Friday. An open date is on tap and Bates plans resumption of squad battles between the "Roberts Roustabouts" and "Christian Cuthroats."

Atlanta's baseball writers, Bob Christian and the oversigned, will manage the clubs. The "Roustabouts," with a victory and tie in two games, lead in the "series." Jim Umbricht and Paul Cave will do the pitching.

CRACKER CRUMBS—John McHale, Milwaukee general manager, veep Birdie Tebbetts and farm director John Mullen watched the Colonels and Crackers play for the second straight day. McHale departed for Bradenton after the game, and Tebbetts and Mullen left for the Braves' Waycross camp for players in lower leagues. . . . Louisville first sacker Dave Roberts robbed Em Lindbeck of a hit with a great snag of his hot ground shot in the fourth inning.

Roosevelt Trips Warriors, 4-1

Roosevelt scored single runs in each of the first four innings Thursday afternoon to down Bass, 4-1, in a game shortened to five innings by rain.

Bass scored its lone run in the bottom of the fourth inning when Frank Crook, who had two singles in two trips to the plate, hit safely to drive in the run.

Roosevelt . . . 111 10-4 4 0

Augusta's Got Fight Fever, And All Because of Basilio

By JIM CARSON

Almost on the eve of the golfing game's classic Masters in Augusta, the city's got fight fever.

They're talking it in restaurants, hotel lobbies, bars, and on street corners. Newspapers and radio and TV announcers are mentioning boxing in almost the same breath with golf.

Basilio takes on 25-year-old middleweight Arley Seifer in a 10-round warmup fight in Augusta's Bell Auditorium the night of April 1.

Also on the card is a 10-round fight between Bahaman Gomeo Brennan and Sammy Walker of Boston, Mass. Both are main event fighters and golfing fans will be following Brennan because Sam Snead has a financial interest in the boy.

The little man from New York state increased his popularity while losing his championship last October to Sugar Ray Robinson.

He battled the bigger Robinson for half of the 15 rounds with one eye closed. And a thoroughly exhausted Robinson admitted another round would have been too much.

Joe Netro, a man who manages Basilio with a whole lot less raving than most managers with a champion or ex-champ, talked quietly about his pride and joy Wednesday as he fished Clark Hill lake with fight promoter Earl Crangle and this writer.

Westminster Winner, 4-2
Bill Abbott tripled in the fourth inning to drive in one run then scored himself on a Gary Skelton single to assure Westminster's 4-2 win over Druid Hills in a game stopped by rain after 4-23 innings.

Druid Hills . . . 200 8-3 3 1

Westminster; McLeland and Hall; Ratchford and Finkler.

"Earl Crangle's one of Carmen's favorite pals and Georgia would be Carmen's home if his business commitments would permit it. That's why he's coming down here to fight."

"We've turned down warm-up fights and much bigger guarantees at other places around the country. But Carmen's made so many friends around Waynesboro and Augusta, it'll be almost like boxing in Syracuse to him."

While it is a safe guess that more than half of the 4,000 expected to fill Bell Auditorium will be in Augusta for the Masters, which begins the next day, the east Georgia city isn't billing the boxing card as a side attraction. It is strictly main event.

If the fight show is a financial success, and advance ticket sales point in that direction, Augusta has the promise of a nationally televised boxing card next year during Masters Week. Promoter Chris Dundee of Miami will be in Augusta next week to determine the fate of this plan.

Basilio and his party, which includes two preliminary fighters, his brother Joey and lightweight Dick DiVeronica, will arrive in Augusta Sunday afternoon by plane. They will change planes in Atlanta.

This trio will stay at an Augusta hotel, but will drive to Waynesboro on Monday and Tuesday for road work and light preliminary workouts.

Outside of the ringside seats, there are still tickets available at $10, $5 and $3. Those writing for tickets should make checks payable to "Basilio-Seifer Fight," Bell Auditorium, Augusta.

British TRIUMPH runs up hills... not bills...for San Francisco owner

Costs $1000 less to buy, $350 a year less to run than average car...yet it is the "best engineered" economy sedan

"A car needs guts to get up our steep streets," writes a San Francisco TRIUMPH owner. "Ours has more than any other small car we tried, and it saves more money."

The TRIUMPH Sedan is a true economy car. It costs $1000 less than an average car. Gives up to 40 m.p.g.

But it's made by the same

British engineers who make TRIUMPH TR-3 sports cars. So it easily out-performs other economy sedans.

It can cruise all day at 65 with no strain on the quiet engine. It goes up to 60,000 miles without a major overhaul. Often 100,000. And the single-unit body takes the roughest treatment with nary a rattle.

Only 12'1" long, TRIUMPH handles and parks with great ease. But there's no wasteful overhang. So there's more head and leg room up front than in a typical American car.

Safety? The body is solid Sheffield steel. Visibility is excellent. And you can turn a complete about-face in less than 3 car lengths.

To get a demonstration, phone the TRIUMPH dealer nearest you. He'll drive the car right to your door for a test. If you prefer, drop in at his showroom. Either way, there's no obligation. (See list this page.)

But don't delay. Drive it and discover all the pleasure a TRIUMPH brings back to driving.

ENGLISH PROF TURNS TO ROARING ROAD FOR HOBBY

By AL THOMY

Once upon a time, during days of used dinosaur salesmen, man—or was it woman?—devised the wheel to support old athletes who complained their legs were giving out.

Well, it might not have been exactly like that, but one fact remains. The wheel was devised, possibly by a dinosaur peddler all out of dinosaurs, and new horizons were opened for the human race.

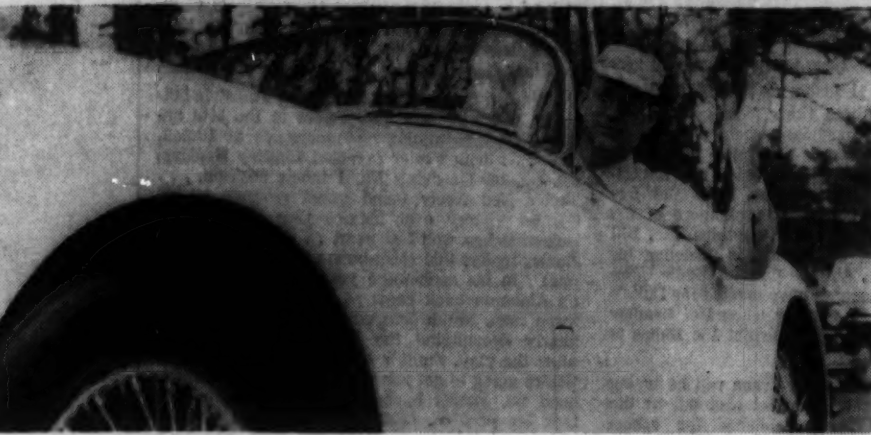

That's when the human race started the cart or machine race. It's been going on ever since. Some race for love, some for money, others for fun and glory. They are not necessarily in agreement.

Dr. Robert H. West, an English professor at the University of Georgia, knows why he races.

"It's strictly a hobby with me," he was saying the other day in Athens. "I got interested in sports car racing right after the war but I've been at it only three seasons. I just enjoy it."

Dr. West, a Vanderbilt graduate, offers a gentle smile when reminded of sneers from stock and championship car drivers who look on sports car racing as a much milder form of the species.

"We are all amateurs and we don't try to be anything else," he answers. "We can't afford to go out there and bang up our cars as they do, or try to sneak through an opening and take a chance of hitting someone. The same car I drive on the tracks has got to carry me to work the next day. I'll be first to admit I wouldn't drive like they do."

Dr. West said sports car drivers depend on "good instructions and a sporting outlook" of the game.

Flashing an impish smile, he added, "And besides, an old man who tries hard is just a menace on the course."

Dr. West has had his share of success on the courses. He won the E Production class at Courtland, Ala., in a campaign which has sent him whirling over tracks at Gainesville, Walterboro, Portland and Elkhart Lake. He drove an A-C Bristol at Courtland.

Again, the keen sense of humor returned. "I was almost beaten by a woman at Courtland," he smiled. "She would have won if she had not suffered a stroke. But losing to her would be no disgrace; she competes at Sebring."

Racing has been only part of Dr. West's sports life. At Vanderbilt he played football and basketball, ran track and boxed and wrestled on intramural teams. After classes almost any day, he can be found on the Georgia athletic field helping coach Spec Towns with the Bulldog track team.

Dr. West also had a tour of sports writing, spending three years with Fred Russell on the Nashville Banner after his days at Vandy.

"You won't find a better person anywhere than Dr. West," says friend Towns.

PARAGRAPH PROFILE: Jim Rathmann, from fastest to faster? Winner of the 1958 Monza, called fastest race in the world, Rathmann gets a chance to better himself at Daytona April 4 when he pilots Lindsey Hopkins' Simonize Special in a 100-mile USAC race. Jim recently did better than 170 m.p.h. on the Daytona asphalt.

SHORT LAPS: Bob Welborn drives Paul McDuffie's 1959 Chevrolet Impala at Winston-Salem, N.C., Monday, with hopes of breaking into winner's circle. Of last Sunday's Lakewood race and undercarriage failure of his machine, McDuffie says: "We worked so intensely on the engine we forgot about the rear end. It was our mistake."

Veteran Bill Snowden, who drove in first Darlington 500, is dead of cancer. . . . Add family teams: Buck Baker has allowed his son to become a race driver. "If that's what he wants to do, I'll help him," says Buck. Lee and Richard Petty are the other father-son combo on NASCAR circuit. . . . Former Indianapolis winner Kelly Petty is out of prison and making plans to introduce his new "V-shaped" engine on Southern stock car circuit. He worked on the engine while in prison. Pettito originally was sentenced for assault and battery with intent to kill his former secretary and returned to prison for parole violation. . . . A $9,000 boost in prize money has raised the purse for the world's richest convertible classic, the Darlington 300, to $30,540. Jr.-Sized Baseball Set For Launching in Area

Baseball—Little League and Babe Ruth size—is gathering forces in the hills and soon will be pouring out on all available open spaces in the city.

Two associations, the Decatur National Little League and the DeKalb Memorial Athletic Association, commence registration Friday at 3 p.m. The Decatur Nationals will meet at Oakhurst Park, where Meade road and East Lake drive intersect.

The DeKalb organization holds registration for Little Leaguers and Babe Ruthers at the same time at Baber Ruth Field, located off Wilkerson drive, SE.

The East Point National Little League kicks off pre-season diamond action Saturday with a fund-raising barbecue. Registration will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Summer Park Recreation Building.

East Point plans 26 teams and Hugh C. Jennings, players' agent, is interested in signing a few more managers and coaches for the Farm League.

Both the Decatur and DeKalb associations will have extra day registrations on Saturday.

Cherokee Team Wins at E. Lake

Cherokee professional Jack McDowell's team of Jack Powell, Leon Hardeman and Dr. E. G. Smith captured the East Lake pro-am Thursday with a best-ball 60.

Tied for second with 62s were teams led by East Lake professionals Harold Sargent and Barry Ward. Sargent's mates were Bob Mills, Ross Hanahan and Guy Richards. Ward's companions were A. L. Swicegood, William Leide and Don Williams.

Piedmont's Pete Cole, aided by W. O. Street, Zach Almand and Earl Watters, finished with a 63 for fourth place.

McGilvray's Windy Heave Scares City Javelin Record

Tiger Misses By 6 Inches

By EARL SIMPKINS

The wind, rain and lightning interfered greatly with City League track meets Thursday afternoon, and the three meets being held at Cheney Stadium were not completed because of the elements.

The high jump, pole vault, javelin and the mile relay were not completed in the three meets, but all other events were completed with the winning teams so far ahead that the uncompleted events would not have made any difference.

Perhaps the best duel of the day was between Bryson Mitchell and Mickey Babb in the shot put of the Baaa-Brown meet. Babb registered 51 ft., 9 1/2 in., but he had to be content with second place as Mitchell notched 52 ft., 2 1/2 in.

Helped somewhat by a strong wind just as he threw, Chandler McGillvray of Northside logged a mark of 176 ft., 2 in.—just six inches short of the 3-AAA record—in the javelin.

Bill Talbot of Northside won his pole vault event, but halted by rain in his attempt for a new City League record after clearing 11 ft., 4 in., as the Tigers routed Sandy Springs, 110½-16½.

The closest meet of the day was Murphy's 72-55 win over Roosevelt.

Southwest, North Fulton, Bass, Grady and Sylvan won by easy margins.

'Talking Books' Marks 25 Years' Aid to Blind

The Talking Books program, which enables some 900 blind Georgians to "listen" to books which they cannot read, will celebrate its 25th anniversary during the week of April 12-18.

Talking Books are long-playing records manufactured for the exclusive use of the blind by the American Foundation for the Blind in New York and the American Printing House for the Blind in Louisville, Ky.

Financed by Congress and administered by the Library of Congress' Division for the Blind, the program in 25 years has seen more than 2,800 titles recorded. These are distributed to 30 regional libraries which loan them without charge to "all legally blind people" who apply.

Special record players are necessary for the blind to listen to the Talking Books, said Thomas B. Johnson, manager of the regional library here.

The library loans record players to those who do not own their own machines, Johnson said.

A blind person can check out a Talking Book "for 30 days," he said. "But there are renewal privileges, and we don't have any fines for overdue records."

The library here has 14,000 copies of some 2,800 different books," Johnson said. "A person is eligible to participate in this program if he is legally blind; that is, if he has less than 20/200 vision—meaning he can see at 20 feet what normal vision sees at 200."

Johnson figures the Georgia program has not approached the potential number of blind persons in the state. "I think there are many, many blind persons in Georgia who would like Talking Books," he said, "but they probably don't know too much about the program."

Johnson said Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," the biographical "A Man Called Peter," the Bible and two novels by Lloyd C. Douglas—"The Robe" and "The Big Fisherman"—head the list of most popular records at his library.

"Most popular of all, though, are the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John," he said. "We've got all four in a single container." The Talking Books range over a wide literary field, from detective stories to adventure yarns to "all of Shakespeare's plays," Johnson said. "We also get Newsweek magazine every week and Reader's Digest every month."

The American Foundation for the Blind, which has turned out more than 7,000,000 since 1894, said there are an estimated 350,000 blind persons in the nation but only about 50,000 are readers of Talking Books.

"The average book can be recorded on 18-double-faced discs," foundation officials said, "requiring about 12 hours' reading time by authors or professional readers."

4 Injured in Head-On Smashup On Rain-Slicked Edgewood Ave.

Four persons were injured, one critically, in the head-on collision of two autos late Thursday in the 800 block of Edgewood avenue, NE.

Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, Negro, of 1307 LaFrance St., NE, was admitted to Grady Hospital with severe head and internal injuries, Patrolman C. E. Hix said.

Three other persons, all riding in a taxicab with the injured woman, were hurt less seriously. They were Joseph Moore Jr., Negro, driver, of 98 Bulloch St.; Eleanor Reed, 28, of 999 Manigault St., and John Carroll, 27, of 337 Pine St.

Hix said a car driven by John H. Swift, 17, of 1756 Clairmont Rd., Decatur, skidded on the slippery street and collided head-on with the cab. He said Swift was charged with driving on the wrong side of the street and accident.

Doctors' Panel Will Decide On Welfare Medical Staff

A committee of the Fulton County Medical Society is studying the question of whether the County Health Department should provide employees to staff a medical care program for 600 children under care of the County Welfare Department.

Dr. James F. Hackney, county health commissioner, said Thursday he is awaiting a recommendation of the committee before acting on a request from Welfare Administrator Wellborn Ellis for staffing the program.

The health commissioner said his department "is willing to cooperate in every way possible, subject to the decisions of the County Board of Health, in providing preventive services for children who are wards of the court."

He also said this program would follow recommendations of "organized medicine in this city."

Dr. Hackney said he was "sympathetic and in favor of providing preventive medicine" to the group of children.

Ellis called on the health department for aid in staffing the medical care program when Grady Hospital officials declined. Unless the health department provides personnel, the welfare department will have to hire a physician to carry out the program, Ellis said.

The youths were also accused of stirring up mischief and of possessing trashy literature.

7 Elvis Fans Jailed by Reds

BERLIN (AP) — A Communist court has jailed seven young East German Elvis Presley fans, a privately run West Berlin intelligence organization said Thursday.

Information Bureau West (IWE) said the group was charged with "instigation against the socialist development of the workers and farmers state through their Elvis Presley worshiping."

The youths were also accused of stirring up mischief and of possessing trashy literature.

1960 PROSPECT

Hawaiians Cost State A U.S. Seat

The admission of Hawaii, plus present population trends, make it almost certain Georgia will lose a seat in the U. S. House in 1960.

The 435 seats of the House are reapportioned every 10 years on a basis of each state's population.

Georgia's population has been growing, but not as fast as the national average.

Even before the admission of Alaska and Hawaii, it looked as though Georgia might lose a seat. Now the loss seems a certainty.

Hawaii will receive two and Alaska one of the 435 total.

California is expected to pick up seven new seats, Florida four, Texas two, Michigan two and Arizona one.

New York appears to be losing three seats, Pennsylvania three, Arkansas two, Massachusetts two, and Alabama, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, North Carolina and West Virginia one each.

In 1960, the first roll film for cameras was patented by George Eastman. Today, more people are taking more pictures than ever before. And more photography advertisers are investing more advertising dollars in newspapers than ever before.

Easter Hops Across Table

Using cake mix, bake and assemble an eight-inch, two-layer cake. With white icing, frost between layers, on top and sides. Then, cut round cookies in half (bake or buy them). Press cookie halves into frosting at edge of cake to make a crown effect for the basket top (if you find it necessary, support outside of cookies with toothpicks). Frost the cookies. Tint one-fourth package of snowflake coconut with green food color, and the balance with yellow. Decorate outside of basket with the yellow coconut and the top with green. Place colorful jelly beans and foil-wrapped candy eggs in basket topped off with a cute little chocolate Easter bunny. To make the handle, braid three different colors of double-thick acetate ribbon. Tie ends and insert between layers to form an arch.

Use favorite cake recipe or cake mix. Generously coat rabbit mold cake pan with shortening. Pour batter into bottom half; spread evenly into face, ears, feet and tail. Insert several toothpicks in neck and ear section for reinforcement. Cover with top half of mold and make sure the edges match and lock. Place mold on a flat pan or tray to hold it level and bake according to directions. Remove mold from oven and open, removing back of mold first. Allow rabbit to cool in face of mold about five minutes. Loosen cake from sides of mold with a knife and remove carefully.

For edible Easter table decorations, make a family of Easter bunnies with hot mashed sweet potatoes. (It's a sly way to make certain children eat them.) On a piece of foil, six inches long, place a large and a small mound of potatoes. Use raisins for eyes and the nose, and a small marshmallow for a tail.

Place potato rabbits on cookie sheet, and broil briefly until marshmallow tail is tinged with brown. Add ears cut from foil.

Something for the little ones to make for mother, a fun and festive Easter egg basket with Mother Hen and her products. Broken shells are dyed with colors, then edges are spread with glue and sprinkled with multicolor glitter.

Follow directions on one package for making pie crust, except add sugar and flavoring before adding the liquid. Roll pastry out ¼ inch thick on a 14-inch square of heavy weight quilted foil. Trim the dough and the foil together into a 12-inch circle, saving the edges of dough for the basket handle. To make the basket place one hand in the center of the dough to hold it flat, and turn the edges up all around. Accordion pleat the edges in deep, wide flutes all the way down to the base, pinching the foil together in crease to retain the shape while baking. To make the handle, twist together two ¼-inch strips of pastry about 16-inches long, allowing a bit on each end to anchor into pudding. Shape these strips into a curve by laying them over the bottom of a mixing bowl or half a ball of foil the desired size. Bake the basket and handle separately until golden brown, according to the package directions. Fold whipped cream into a pudding and pour into shell, then insert the handle into pudding. Carefully remove the foil pan.

Brazil Nuts For a Crust

Ground Brazil nuts (put them through the food chopper) mixed with sugar and egg white will bake into a crisp, nut-flavored pie crust.

To make the crust, grease a 9-inch pie plate; line bottom of pan with waxed paper, then grease paper. Combine 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1 1/2 cups ground Brazil nuts. Beat an egg white until it holds soft peaks and add to nut mixture. Turn mixture into prepared pan and press firmly over bottom and sides. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes, or until lightly browned.

Remove from oven and loosen crust from pan with thin-bladed

Sandwich Rolls Are Hot, Spicy With Cheese

Hot, spicy sandwich rolls: Grate 1 can spiced luncheon meat medium-fine and mix with 1 cup grated cheddar cheese, 1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Remove a little of the center part of 8 hot dog buns, brush lightly with butter and fill generously with meat mixture. Wrap filled rolls tightly in aluminum foil and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Note: Will stay hot for nearly an hour if left wrapped. Also, the filled and wrapped rolls can be stored in the refrigerator several hours before baking.

PANCAKE DESSERT WITH FRUIT
Filling Topped With a Sweep Sauce

Roll Up a Pancake

The next time friends drop in, why not serve them a pancake dessert to go with coffee? They are delightful looking, yet are easy to prepare.

Here are several recipes for pancake dessert fillings and topping that you might want to try.

Of course, you needn't wait for company. These pancake treats make a good dessert for the family, too.

ROLLED PANCAKES
 1½ cups sifted flour
 2½ tps. baking powder
 ½ tsp. salt
 ¾ cup confectioners' sugar
 2 eggs well beaten
 1½ cups milk
 4 tps. melted butter
 Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add milk to beaten eggs and stir into dry ingredients. Beat in melted butter.

Cook in a thin cake by spreading batter about 8 inches across in a frying pan. Serve with filling and topping suggested below. Makes 12-14 pancakes.

APPLE SAUCE FILLING
 1 cup canned applesauce
 ½ cup brown sugar
 2 tps. nutmeg
 1 tps. lemon juice
 2 egg whites
 Combine apple sauce, brown sugar, nutmeg and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Fold beaten egg whites into apple sauce mixture. Spoon filling across middle of each pancake and roll around filling. Place folded side down in shallow baking pan. Heat pancakes just before serving.

BANANA FILLING
 4 bananas, sliced
 4 tps. butter
 ½ cup brown sugar
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 1 tps. orange juice
 Sauté lightly banana slices in butter. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and orange juice mixture. Spoon filling in center of pancakes and roll cake around filling. Place folded side down in shallow baking pan. Heat just before serving.

LEMON TOPPING

 2 tps. cornstarch
 ½ tsp. salt
 1½ cups water
 ½ cup lemon juice
 2 egg whites, beaten

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in sauce pan. Stir in water. Cook until mixture is thick and boils. Stir in lemon juice. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into lemon mixture.

Sauce for a Party Dinner

Try topping the sauce with grated white and yolk of hard-cooked egg. Now you've the vegetables needed for a party dinner.

SOUP CREAM SAUCE

1 pkg. frozen broccoli spears or asparagus
 1 cup sour cream
 ½ cup mayonnaise
 2 tps. Italian tomato paste
 ½ tsp. salt
 ½ tsp. dried basil
 2 tps. minced capers (drained)

Cook broccoli or asparagus according to package directions. Drain and cool. Combine sour cream, mayonnaise and tomato paste. Blend thoroughly. Stir in remaining ingredients. Chill. Makes 1½ cups.

Flavorful Stew

Brown the pieces of meat you are using in a stew to give added flavor.

Atlanta has had television in the classroom long enough to get a good indication of its effectiveness. The experience here will be indicative of developments throughout Georgia when the State Department of Education completes its statewide network of television stations. Katherine Skogstad, Journal staff writer, examines what TV is doing in the classroom, how it is changing teaching methods, its good and bad points. Her series will continue daily in The Journal.

Poppy Seed Waffles For an Easter Brunch

year. Try serving these poppy seed waffles with sausage. Of course, you'll want one-penny, two-penny hot cross buns, too.

To make this a "workless" meal that Mom could make in her best Easter gown, serve the meal on festive paper plates. There'll be no dishwashing, for paper plates are disposable. Just toss them into the trash-can after the meal. Try it.

POPPY SEED WAFFLES

(Makes Six Servings)
2 cups biscuit mix
1 tbsp. poppy seeds
1 egg
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tbsps. salad oil

Combine biscuit mix and poppy seeds. Beat egg; add milk and oil. Add to flour mixture and stir lightly. Bake on waffle iron. Makes six servings.

ONE-PENNY TWO-PENNY HOT CROSS BUNS

(Makes 18 3-inch rolls)
1 1/2-lb. pkgs. hot roll mix
1/4 cup currants
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1/4 cup evaporated milk

Combine roll mix, currants, raisins, cinnamon, nutmeg and rind. Mix roll mix according to directions on package. Let rise in warm place (85 degrees) until doubled in bulk. Turn out on lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic. Shape into 18 two-inch balls and place on baking sheets. Cover. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk. Make criss-cross slits on top of buns. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 10-15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cool. Combine sugar and milk; blend. Frost buns with milk mixture. Makes 18 three-inch rolls.

Cut Bread Crumbs

When you are turning slices of fresh bread into crumbs, you can tear the bread with a fork or cut it fine with a knife, during cooking.

EASTER BRUNCH THIS YEAR SHOULD BE EXTRA SPECIAL Poppy Seed Waffles With Sausage Can Be the Highlight

Southern Pride a Combination With Ham

Southern pride ham pie is the name for this flavorful combination of diced ham and green beans sauced with cream and mushrooms and topped with biscuits. This is an ideal dish for left-over ham. The sauce is velvety, rich cream of mushroom soup, undiluted.

SOUTHERN PRIDE HAM PIE

1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tbsps. butter or margarine

2 10 1/2-oz. cans condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
2 tbsps. minced pimiento
1 1/2 cups diced, cooked ham can (1 lb.) cut green beans, drained
2 cups prepared biscuit mix
2 tbsps. minced parsley

Heat oven to 400 degrees (moderately hot). Sauté onion in butter until tender. Stir in soup and pimiento. Add ham and beans. Turn into baking dish (8"x8"x2"). Prepare biscuit mix following directions on package for rolled biscuits, adding parsley to dry mix. Top ham and bean mixture with biscuits. Bake extra biscuits on separate sheet. Bake casserole 20-25 minutes or until bubbly and biscuits are done. Makes 6 servings.

Check Your Mixing

Have you checked your mixing techniques lately? There are many that homemakers aren't familiar with or are afraid to do. But whether you're an expert at the folding method or not, you'll enjoy making this new type of pie.

The secret surrounding the lemon mystery pie lies in folding ingredients together. For this lemon pie is not a chiffon, not a cream, it's both. A rich, yet light, satisfying dessert that will please women who prefer chiffon, men who ask for a more substantial filling, and youngsters who just like dessert.

With modern day equipment and utensils, the fold-in method is very easy to do. Follow these simple directions: cut down gently through center of batter with edge of spoon or spatula, bringing up close to bowl, then turning over, cutting down through again, turning bowl a quarter turn at same time. Repeat until ingredients are blended.

Enhancing the flavor of the pie is fresh lemon juice and grated rind. The first signs of freshly-grated rind appear in the crust, easily made from one stick of pie crust mix; more rind is found throughout the filling.

The pie's secret lies in the filling. Instead of beaten egg whites, meringue mix is folded into it. Imagine creamy meringue blended through the filling instead of on top, delicious twist to lemon pie. And just before serving, top with whipped cream rosettes.

The lemon pie mystery began and ended in the Betty Crocker kitchens. The following recipe reveals its secret:

LEMON MYSTERY PIE
9 in. baked lemon pie shell
1 cup sugar
2 tbsps. cornstarch
1 envelope unflavored gelatin (1 tbsps.)
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. grated lemon rind
1½ cups waterMIXING OF LEMON MYSTERY PIE

This Is a New Type In-Between Pie

¼ cup fresh Sunkist lemon juice
4 to 6 drops yellow food coloring, if desired
1 packet meringue mix

Make 9" baked lemon pie shell as directed on Instant Mixing Pie Crust Mix package, except before mixing, add grated rind of ½ lemon.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, gelatin, and salt in saucepan. Gradually stir in water. Add butter and bring to rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in lemon rind, juice, and good coloring. Chill until mixture is partially set and mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Stir until smooth. Prepare Meringue Mix as directed on packet for pie meringue. Fold gently into lemon filling with rubber scraper. Pile filling into baked pie shell. Chill about 3 hours or until set.

Cooked Dressing Over Hot Water

Prepare a cooked salad dressing in a heavy saucepan over low heat or in a double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. If you use high heat the milk in the dressing may be curdled by the vinegar and the egg yolk in it may get lumpy.

Pineapple Dessert

Ordinary vegetables and tuna take on a prepared with loving care air when combined with juicy, tangy pineapple chunks in a savory oriental sauce. And take a cue from the orientals, too, be sure the vegetables are almost crisp, and fresh-bright; not overcooked.

TUNA-PINEAPPLE ORIENTAL
1 can (1 1/4-oz.) Pineapple Chunks
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup sugar
2 tps. soy sauce
1/4 tps. monosodium glutamate
1/2 cup water
2 tbsps. cornstarch
1 medium onion, cut in thin wedges
1 medium green pepper, seeded and cut in strips
1 can (6 1/2-oz.) tuna chunks, drained
1 tomato, cut in wedges
Drain syrup from pineapple

Into a 2-quart saucepan. Add vinegar, sugar, soy sauce and monosodium glutamate. Blend water with cornstarch and add to liquids. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently until mixture is thick and clear. Shortly before serving, gently stir in drained pineapple, onion, green pepper, tuna, and tomato. Cover and continue cooking on low for 5-7 minutes to heat through. Serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

Brown Residue Used in Gravy

Never waste the brown residue that sticks to the skillet when you are cooking chicken in a small amount of fat. After the chicken pieces are removed, add a little liquid to the pan and stir and scrape (with a wooden spoon) over low heat to dissolve the residue. Then strain and use as natural gravy, or thicken for a regular gravy or sauce.

A Sauce for Pork

Add fennel seeds to apple sauce or fried apples to be served with pork. This spice is somewhat like anise in flavor.

Rarebit, Corn Sticks

Now is the time when some of us are fasting, and then there are others of us who simply enjoy a snack meal. Planning an appealing menu without a lot of preparation is often easier said than done. With the help of the wide variety of cheese on the market now and the large assortment of mixes on your grocer's shelves it is becoming more simple each day. Using a sharp cheese and a package of your favorite corn muffin mix you can have this welch rarebit 'n corn sticks main dish ready in no time flat.

The golden corn sticks can be made in a jiffy with prepared corn muffin mix, for all you have to do is add the egg and milk as directed on the package. While they are in the oven baking to crusty brown, melt the cheese along with the other ingredients. The mushrooms in the sauce give the dish a special gourmet touch without putting a big dent in the food budget.

Complete the menu with a fruit salad of apple slices, orange sections, grapes and banana circles. This is a good menu to keep in mind for spur-of-the-moment guests as well as a speedy stand-by for the family!

WELCH RAREBIT 'N CORN STICKS

CORN STICKS:
One 12-oz. pkg. corn muffin mix
1 egg
1/2 cup milk

CHEESE SAUCE:
1/4 lb. processed sharp cheese, cubed
1 1/2 cups light cream
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 cup sliced canned mushrooms
2 tbsps. chopped pimiento

Heat oven to hot (400 degrees) For the corn sticks, empty contents of corn muffin mix package into bowl; add egg and milk. Blend only until dry ingredients are well moistened. Pour batter into 12 greased corn stick molds. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 15 minutes or until golden brown.

While corn sticks are baking, melt cubes of cheese in double boiler. Add cream gradually, stirring until smooth. Stir in salt, mustard, mushrooms and pimiento. For each serving, pour hot cheese sauce over two corn sticks. Makes 6 servings.

Add Extra Salt
 Don't forget to add extra salt and pepper when you prepare gravy from meat or poultry drippings. The seasonings originally used on the meat probably won't be enough for the gravy.

RECIPE
Deviled Butter Sauce
 • Blend 2 Tbs. butter with 2 Tbs. each Heinz Worcestershire Sauce and Heinz Mustard. Heat. It's marvelous over hot vegetables.

Coffee Jelly Topped by Apricots

For new harmony between dessert and topping, try fruit-flavored topping made with instant nonfat dry milk crystals. Instant crystals are the modern nonfat milk in crystal form that dissolve instantly even in ice cold water for drinking, cooking and baking. And best of all these magic crystals of nonfat milk whip into fluffy mounds of dessert topping when mixed with either ice water or well-chilled fruit juice. This topping is low in calories, too, 1/2 lighter in calories than whipped cream the shine that stays bright EVEN IN THE RAIN!

That's why the Marines, other outdoorsmen, prefer it! Contains costliest waxes, superior dyes to protect against water, make shine buff back brighter even after muddy weather and hard wear. Shines faster, too! Yet Kiwi costs no more.

DESSERT AND TOPPING
 Coffee, Jelly and Apricot

because instant crystals are nonfat . . . pure pasteurized milk with all the fat and water removed. This topping has an added attraction for the budget-minded . . . one serving costs as little as 2 1/2 cents.

For a simple but glamorous dessert that's as good as it looks, try Coffee Jelly topped with apricot whipped instant crystals . . . a dessert that's a high point in low-calorie dining.

COFFEE JELLY WITH APRICOT TOPPING
 2 tbsps. (2 envs.) unflavored gelatin
 1/2 cup sugar
 4 cups hot strong coffee
 2 1/2 cups apricot whipped instant nonfat dry milk crystals

Combine gelatin and sugar; mix well. Add coffee and stir until gelatin and sugar are dissolved. Pour into 8 dessert dishes. Chill until firm. Serve coffee jelly with apricot whipped instant crystals.

To whip apricot instant nonfat dry milk crystals: Mix 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals with 1/2 cup well-chilled apricot nectar. Whip until soft peaks form (4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating, while gradually adding 2 tablespoons sugar, until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer). Makes about 2 1/2 cups. Makes 6 servings.

It Happened in Atlanta...

Give to your Red Cross so Red Cross can give to you!

First the sickening screech of tires. Then a jumbled mass of shattered glass, crumpled metal and broken bodies. This is the horror of an automobile accident. And in Atlanta last year, 2,354 were injured in 1,765 automobile accidents.

In many instances, accident victims required first aid, blood or blood plasma. These are programs of vital concern to your Red Cross. Last year in Atlanta, Red Cross collected 44,955 pints of blood.

Will you be a statistic this year? Why not buy some tragedy insurance now. Your contribution of $5.00 would pay for collecting one pint of blood to help save a life. Give to your Red Cross — and give as much as you can!

SWEETMILK Pillsbury Country Style Biscuits

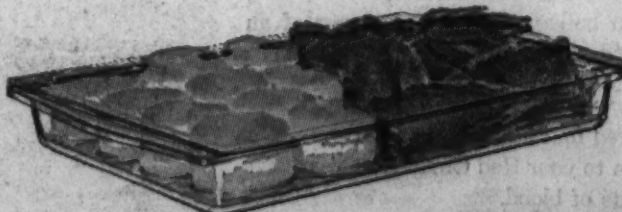

Different! Pillsbury Country Style Biscuits are just a little bit different from Pillsbury Buttermilk Biscuits, but it's a difference worth discovering. They're especially mild, delicate, and sweetmilk sweet.

You'll love 'em hot from the oven! So tender, fluffy, heavenly-light. Wonderful with butter, preserves or jelly. But that's not all. These biscuits inspire dozens of exciting breakfast, lunch and dinner ideas—and elegant desserts!

3 wonderful new ways to use Pillsbury Country Style Biscuits

HAM-ASPARAGUS RAREBIT. Split hot biscuits; top with slices of warm ham or Canadian bacon. Arrange hot, cooked asparagus over ham and finish off with your favorite rarebit sauce. Chopped parsley adds that crowning touch.

OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN 'N BISCUITS. Follow your favorite recipe for oven-fried chicken. When almost tender, move chicken to one end of pan; arrange biscuits at opposite end. Bake uncovered at 425° until golden brown, about 15 min.

SPEEDY CHERRY COBBLER. Empty 1 can prepared cherry pie filling into an 8-inch square pan or 2-quart casserole. Top with biscuits. Brush biscuits with butter and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 400° for 25-30 minutes. Serve warm.
